

Guv signs tough law on drunk boating designed to crack down on drunken boating.

Surrounded by a contingent of area legislators, law enforcement officials and supporters at the Harbor Club Restaurant in unincorporated Antioch, Ryan signed into law Senate Bill 739. The new law expands the definition of reckless homicide to include watercraft, snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles.

The legislation increases penalties for people who are legally drunk and are involved in boating, snowmobiling or ATV accidents that result in another person's death, bringing those penalties in line with drunken driving penalties.

"The message is drinking and driving doesn't mix—whether you're driving a car, a boat or a snowmobile," said Ryan, speaking to about 60 to 70 supporters outside of the restaurant. "We think this legislation is something we can do to make our waterways safer."

Last year, Ryan said, there were 176 recreational boating accidents in Illinois, killing 19 people. He said more than 90 percent of the boat crashes on the state's rivers and lakes last year occurred between May and September, and 83 percent of the crashes were on the weekends.

Ryan's visit to Antioch coincided with the beginning of the Memorial Day weekend, one of the busiest weekends for recreational boating of the year.

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) sponsored the bill in the Senate, and State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) carried the bill in the House. The legislation takes effect Jan. 1, 2001.

"Boaters should be held accountable to the same laws as drivers where drinking and driving or drugs are concerned," said Geo-Karis. "There have been too many accidents in the Chain O'Lakes where innocent people have been injured or killed by impaired boaters."

Geo-Karis said she is pleased the governor visited the area to show his support for the legislation.

"This bill was very dear to the heart of Mothers Against Drunk Driving," Geo-Karis said.

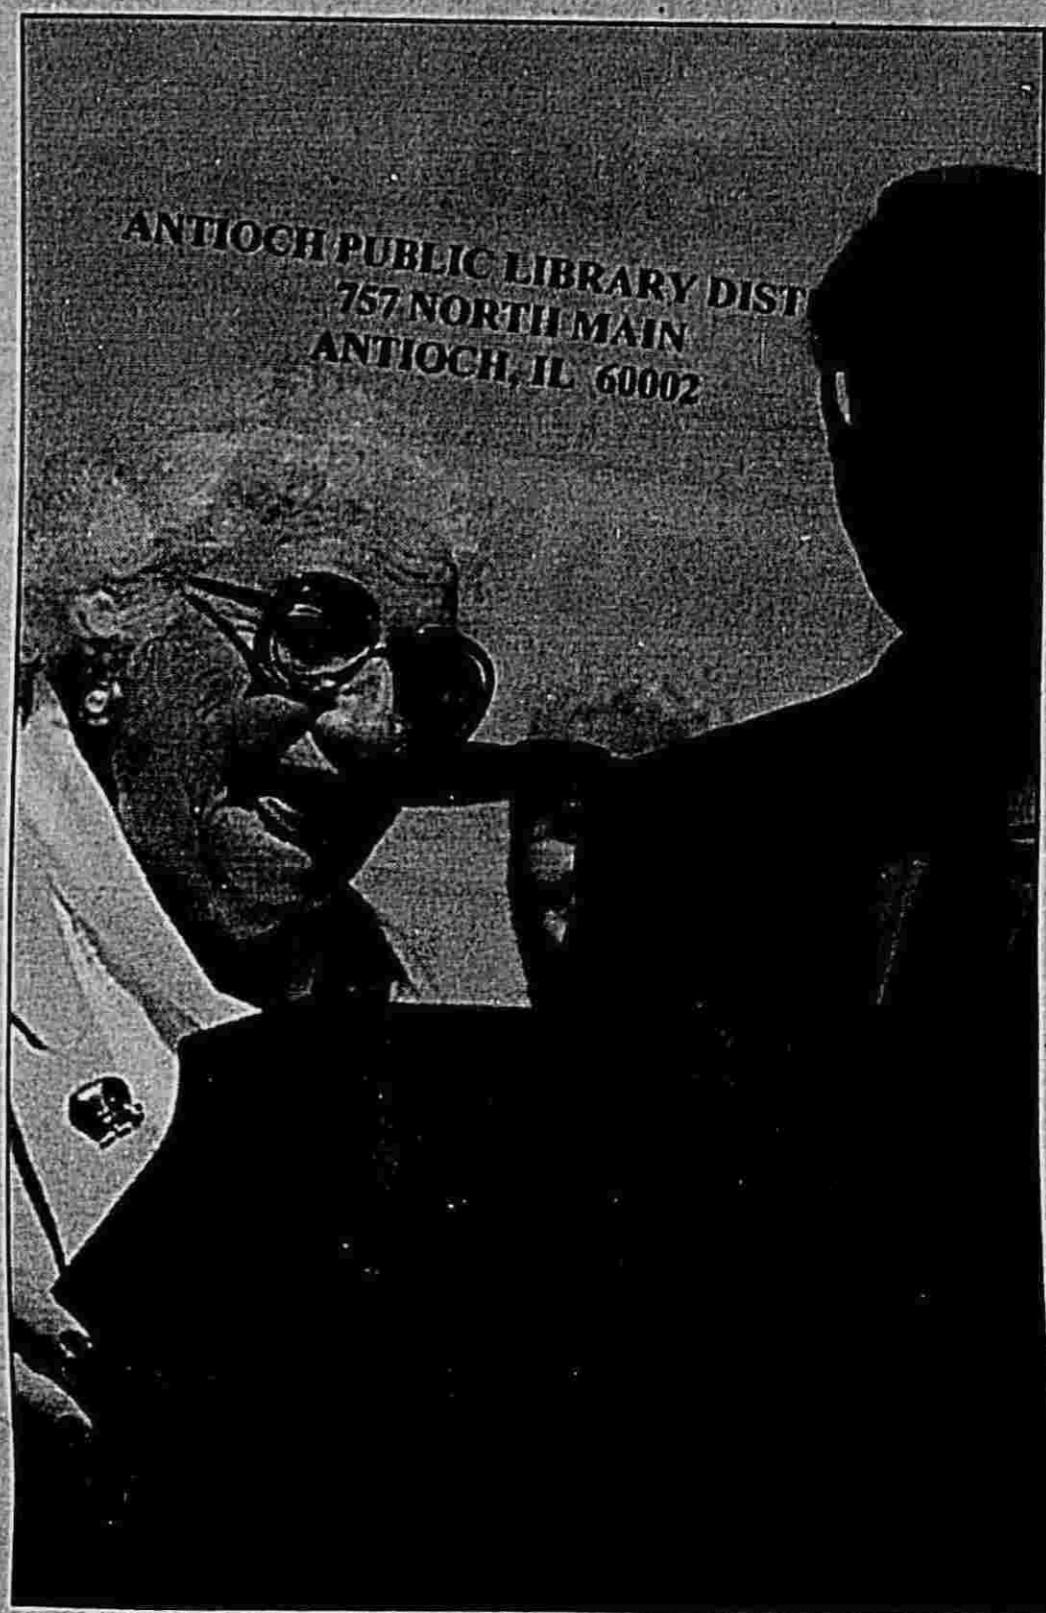

Karen Demos, who founded the Lake County Chapter of MADD, said the legislation certainly isn't going to cure all problems but is an important step to promoting responsible boating.

"It's not an accident when somebody chooses to drink and drive, or drink and operate a boat or a snowmobile," she said. "People need to understand what a devastating impact their actions can have."

In addition to Ryan, Geo-Karis and Moore, others speaking at the event were Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood, State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Wauconda), State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) and Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shinnell. Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson and Sheriff Gary Del Re were also in attendance.

Sessions are managed by certified physical education instructor Scott Staver of Antioch Grade School.

Sessions are offered for three age groups.

Children who are 6 and 7 years old will meet from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.

Children who are 8 and 9 years old will meet from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m.

BLINKERS: Store creates fun paddle-balls, Chinese finger-pulls.

"I moved here from the northwest side of Chicago 15 years ago," Linker said. "I really love this town. I just thought it was the coolest, neatest town."

"I've been here (in this store) 14 years, this month," she said.

Her partner in the store during these years has been Rich Hart. "He does the scary part of the business, so it allows me to play store," she said. She is the one who works with the public and buys the merchandise they sell.

Jeanne Kowell and Jennifer Van Patten are two helpers in the store. They are a necessary part of the operation especially with the expanded offerings in back.

Linker has been able to open a back area of her building to create a spacious atmosphere for customers searching for gifts or prizes in quantity. The space allows the store to offer a greater variety of merchandise. It still has the traditional Main Street entrance, but now there is a new, second entrance from the parking lot in the back of the store on the west side of the street.

The back shop of J. J. Blinkers allows Linker to meet the needs of another type of customer other than parents with a child's party to create.

"We want to be a teacher-oriented, PTO-oriented, park-oriented store," Linker said. The merchandise in back is intended to contribute to the atmosphere of large group parties, carnivals, fun fairs, and gatherings of children for any reason. Her items are priced so customers can buy groups of items in quantity.

Parent Teacher Organizations with a fun fair prize list to stock will find items available in bulk at a cost that allows them to have prize selections with variety. "They can buy quantities from one piece to a few gross," she said.

"We have games that are available," Linker said. Some of the games may require lots of prizes, prizes which she just happens to have stacked and stocked on shelves all around.

On the ceiling are hung all piñatas with care. There are the traditional human and animal designs and shapes, but also the more modern styles such as Monster Tire Pickup Trucks.

During the holidays throughout the year, Linker has merchandise to cater to season party themes. Yes, the place is an amazing sight to see in September and October as Halloween moves into view. But a holiday such as Independence Day also brings her flag-related displays onto the floor.

J. J. Blinkers reaches out to meet the needs of four types of fun-seeking customers. There are moms and dads and individuals who want and need party items. There are organizations, like teacher and parent groups that need prizes, games, or decorations for large events.

A third group to which she caters are people who are interested in seasonal merchandise. The big event is, of course, Halloween. However, holidays such as Easter, Memorial Day, and Independence Day all have special needs for prizes or presents.

The fourth group to which she caters is just interested in fun. For them, she has the Groucho Marx eyeglasses with large nose and mustache. A whoopee cushion is always perfect for parties. There are bachelor and bachelorette party goods in their own room.

So, why call it J. J. Blinkers? "It's a happy name," she said. "It just flowed."

"My last name is Linker, and I liked things that blink, and it sounds better than Joanne's Goofy Stuff Store."

Today, a large, blue neon sign shines from her window into the adjacent park. It displays the store name and the Groucho glasses.

The sign captures the mood of the store. She says that her merchandise has captured the irreverent mood of Antioch.

The merchandise she has in the store today is very different from what she had when she opened the store 14 years ago.

"This is what the town wanted," she said. "It's not me. It's the town."

Little helping hands reach to Oklahoma

Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center's Relief effort a success

By JACLYN GRAHAM
Staff Intern

For some, an extra pair of shoes may seem like a bothersome waste of space in the closet. But for the tornado victims in Oklahoma, who lost their homes and all of their possessions, those annoying extras are extremely precious.

With the tornado stricken people in mind, Frank Davis, executive director of the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center (LECC), decided to hold a community-wide relief collection.

This undertaking enabled Davis to inform the children at the LECC about what happened to the people in Oklahoma, and allowed the children to have hands-on involvement in the project.

Through the process of trial and error, Davis acquired the donated components necessary to kick-off the collection, such as boxes, storage spaces, banners, and a truck to take the goods to Oklahoma.

Davis set the collection goal at 10,000 pounds, in hopes that everyone from the local and surrounding communities would at least donate some of their unused possessions for people who really needed them. Monetary donations and non-perishable food items were welcomed as well. Beginning on May 10, there was a large storage trailer outside of the LECC with a professional banner, donated by Sign Central, that read "Help with Donations to the Oklahoma City Tornado Relief Effort." It also listed what type of items to donate: bedding, bottled water, canned goods, toiletries, and clothing.

Through publicity and word of mouth, the campaign for the accumulation of goods to be shipped to Oklahoma took off. As Davis said, "With word spreading so much, it really got the interest going." The LECC even received donations and calls of interest from people as far away as Lake Forest, Highland Park, Crystal Lake, and McHenry.

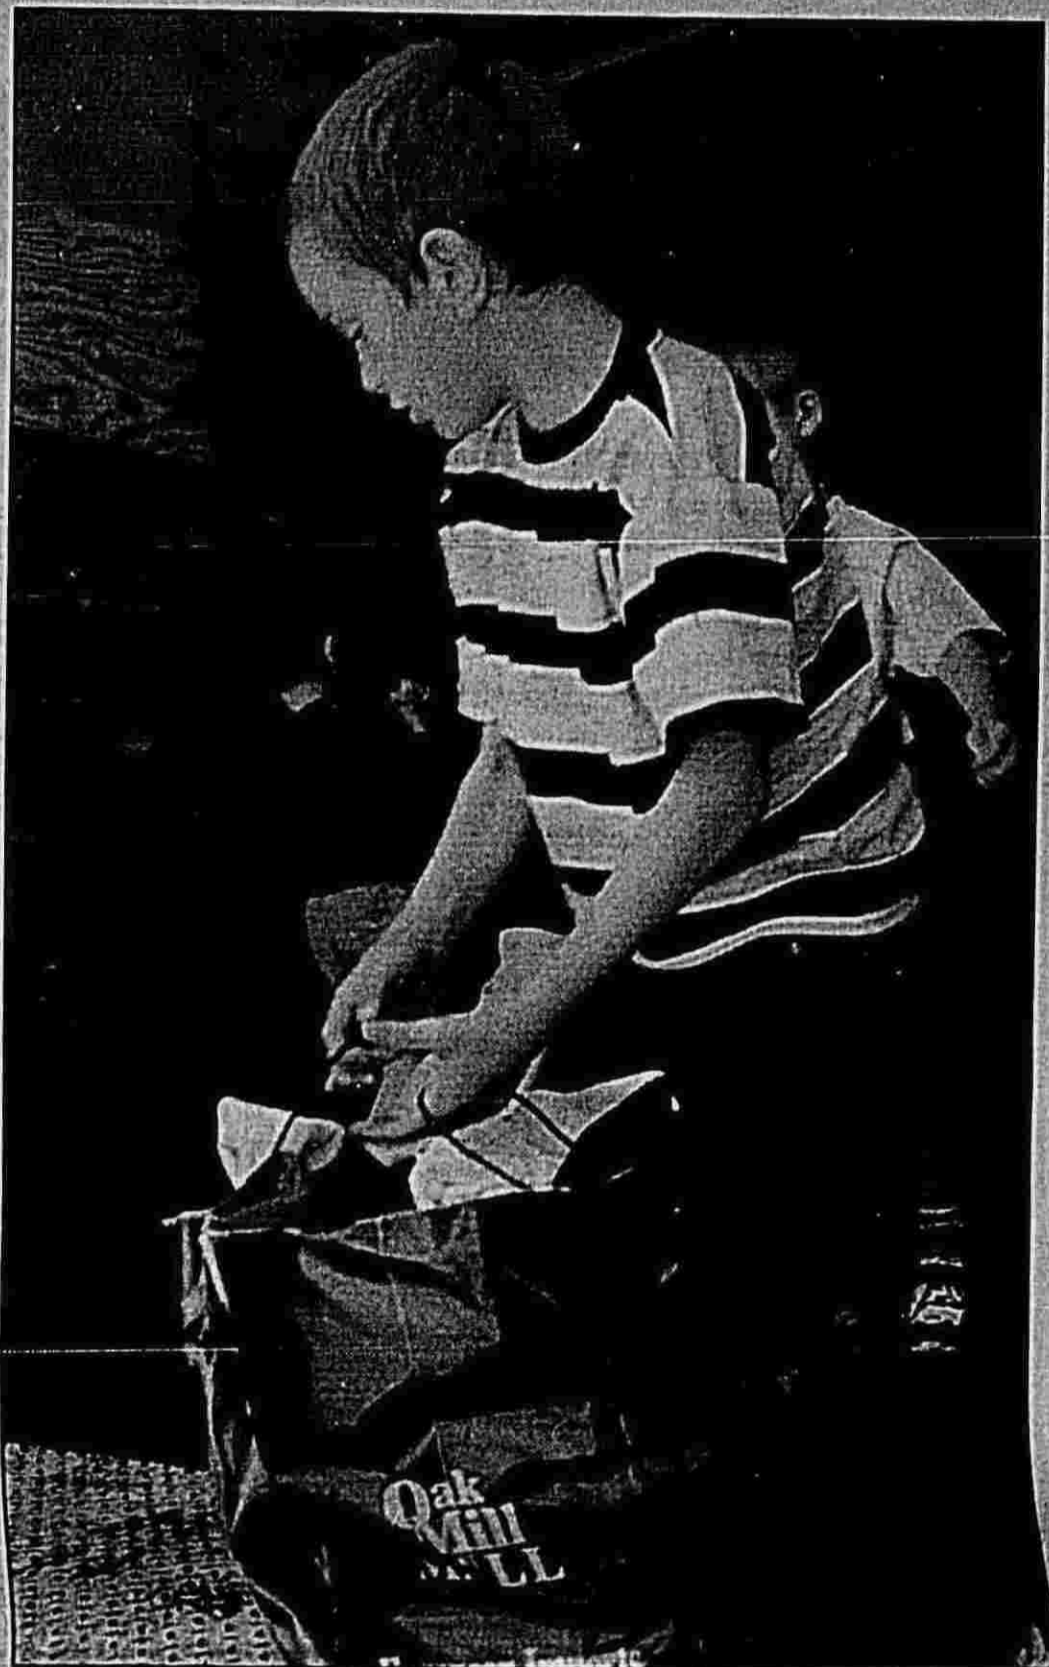

As food and donations began to pour in, Davis and the 3-7 year old children at the LECC started to put together care packages for the victims. With over 200 boxes donated by the Uline Box Company, the children made care packages and cards for the victims.

Enthusiastic 6-year-old Kenny Jones said that they made the boxes, "for people that lost their houses and things in tornadoes." The children also creatively sponge-painted the outsides of the boxes, literally adding their caring touch to the packages. "The children loved being involved in something that had some meaning," said Davis.

Donations of money totaling $1,300 were used at Aldi, to buy things such as canned goods, diapers, toiletries, and virtually anything non-perishable. When the amount of goods coming in exceeded the amount of space in the semi-trailer outside of the LECC, Pleviak and Emmons grade schools donated extra storage spaces.

"At one point we had to stop collecting clothes because we had nowhere to keep them anymore," explained Davis. The LECC had so many donations accumulated that several bags had to sit outside of the trailer for a few days due to lack of storage space.

By the end of the collection period, the total had reached almost 55,000 pounds of non-perishable goods. This exceeded the initial goal by nearly 45,000 pounds. "It is really something, and is kind of remarkable how much of a response we received," said Davis. "A lot of parents were extremely impressed with the amount and magnitude of the event."

On May 28th, the "Feed the Children Truck," ironically based in Oklahoma, arrived to pick up the goods. Davis, LECC employee Melissa Weber, and a few children volunteers began to pack the truck with the donations.

The obstacle before them was a trailer full of bags, boxes, and miscellaneous items—strollers, playpens, car seats, bikes, and crutches—to load onto the truck.

The plethora of items that people gave away for the tornado victims poked out of the box tops and tears in the bags as they were placed on the truck. Examples of the many toys donated included buckets of Leggos, bouncy balls, stuffed animals, play tea sets, and board games.

Kitchen items like pots, pans, plates, and cups were also popular donations. Food-wise, anything and everything non-perishable could be found amidst the boxes and bags, from water to cereal.

The children were in high spirits as Davis tossed bags into the truck and the children quickly pulled them into the back. "When you get tired, go in, get water, and someone else can come out if they want to," Davis told the children. But becoming tired was the least of the children's worries, as they wanted the victims to get the donations soon.

"When the children are involved in projects like this, their sense of pride builds," said Davis. "Our goal is that when they get older, they will go out on their own and continue to do good things in the community." After four hours of loading, the collection was finally shipped off to Oklahoma, to aid the victims in their time of need and hardship.

Lake Villa safety fair promotes awareness

By JACLYN GRAHAM
Staff Intern

Children and adults learned about all areas of safety and awareness at the Lake Villa Police Department's second annual Community Safety Fair. The turnout deemed a success, with a larger number of visitors and agencies supporting the event this year.

Officers from Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, and Round Lake Heights were among the many that volunteered to attend the Fair, May 29.

"We are focused on changing our community through crime prevention," said Lake Villa Police Sergeant G.P. Thommes.

The Lake Villa VFW's parking lot and hall were filled with various safety programs and information booths. "Each year we correct the stuff that we forgot about the year before," said Thommes. That includes adding programs and sites to the Fair that can further educate the partakers.

Many agencies participated, including the American Red Cross, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, the Illinois Department of Transportation, La Casa, and the Illinois Secretary of State's Office.

Topics such as gun safety, alcohol, tobacco, and marijuana resistance, abuse prevention, and boating safety were part of the overall program. The police were also registering Lake Villa resident's bikes.

To meet the children out in the hot sun were McGruff the Crime Dog, McDonald's Hamburgler, and two crash test dummies. Also in the parking lot was a 2,500 square foot "Safety Town," a mock village full of signs for children to ride through on 3-wheeled bikes, testing their safety skills.

The Fox Lake Fire Department provided a "Smoke House" for teaching people how to react in the event of a fire. Four year old Nick Testin learned that "You can't go in the fire; We have to go out the window if the door's real hot."

According to Thommes, the Fair is "More to help kids educate their parents." The goal is to reinforce the principals of safety and reach the children while they are small.

Next year, the Police Department is considering moving the Safety Fair to a more visible location, like the Metra lot or Prince of Peace, to promote increased attendance of local residents and passers-by.

LINDENHURST

Disorderly Conduct

Lindenhurst police responded to a complaint of a streaker on May 26 at 10:40 p.m. The complainant said he was sitting in his car in the Taco Bell parking lot on Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst when he witnessed a naked male youth running from Jam & Java in the Linden Plaza. The streaker apparently got into a car and left.

Officers were later able to locate the car. The driver told the officer that he dared the youth to streak through the parking lot. The matter is still being investigated.

Criminal damage to property

Lindenhurst police responded to a property damage complaint at Mallard Ridge Dr. and Grand Ave. on Thursday, May 27. It was reported that six entrance flood lights, valued at $90, were broken. It appeared that the fixtures were kicked or knocked-over purposely. The Mallard Ridge Homeowner's Association will have to replace the lights. There are no suspects.

Rotarians learn self-confidence key to photography

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Professional photographers Steve and Pamela Breitberg have words of encouragement for people daunted by the options and complexities of modern photography.

In general, the Breitbergs encouraged people to relax and have confidence that they can do well with equipment that is easy to use. Modern equipment provides the opportunity to focus on other aspects of good photography such as patience and composition.

Steve and Pamela Breitberg brought copies of their environmental photographs and advice for shutter bugs to the Antioch Rotary Club in Thursday, May 6 at Columbia Bay Brewery and Pub on Route 59.

"You don't need a fancy camera system to take good pictures," said Pamela Breitberg. People just need to know how to operate the camera they have.

"Learn your camera," said Steven Breitberg.

For her own professional work as a wildlife photographer, Pamela Breitberg uses her camera and little else. There are no tripods, umbrellas for sun, wind deflectors, or other specialized equipment.

"To do this type of photography, you need an abundance of patience," she said. That has nothing to do with the film or the camera.

"You can do more with composition. You can do more with patience," Steven Breitberg said.

Pamela Breitberg said that a good time of the day to take photographs is from 7 to 8 a.m. and from 4 to 7 p.m. That time of the day, the light is more diffuse and the shadows are less extreme. This makes it easier for cameras to adjust to record what the photographer sees.

Pamela Breitberg said that she uses a 100 speed film. "For myself I use print negative color film," she said. "The greens are so beautiful in Fuji film," she said. But, "Kodak has really progressed in the last few years."

As a general film for people who do not know what they will be taking pictures of, she recommends a 400 speed film.

Kodak will be bringing out new films that will be very responsive to customer needs, according to Pamela Breitberg.

"It does pay to go to a good camera store and have it processed," Pamela Breitberg said. "It is true you get what you pay for." She finds professional processing treats the prints individually to bring out the true value of the picture.

"Be careful with digital," said Steven Breitberg. "Be careful about digital; it's not perfected yet." Digital photography still is an evolving technology. Important digital photographs may not be compatible with future software or computers.

Pamela and Steven Breitberg are event photographers. They do weddings and religious services on a full-time basis from their Wilmette studio. Wildlife photography is a second area of their work that is done mostly by Pamela Breitberg.

I had the great misfortune of attending a funeral recently. As I sat in the choir loft of church, gazing down on the standing-room-only crowd, it was with a heavy heart in which I pondered the scene playing out before me. The congregation, besides the usual mix of family members, was comprised mostly of young adults, teenagers, and high school students—one of their own had taken a journey up through the pearly white gates.

As the church floor became littered with dampened tissues, I watched these young people sitting in all states of emotional despair. Some sobbed openly, a few stared straight-faced, while others sat with heads bowed. None of them should have been there. They should have been at school on that Monday, or at home, or wherever else kids are on Mondays. They should not have been sitting in church bidding farewell to one of their classmates, to their team mate, to their friend.

As life goes, the whole tragic situation should have never happened. As adult children we make funeral arrangements for our parents; parents are not suppose to bury their children. As parents, care-givers, teachers, aunts, uncles, grandparents, sisters, brothers, and friends we all need to circle the wagons around our young people and hear their please, calm their fears and answer their cries.

We have to take their faces between our hands, stare them straight in the eyes, and tell them there is no problem so big, no situation so hopeless, or no circumstances so out of control that they can't be worked out. We have to let them know that together we can work through anything. And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Trip Cancellation Insurance vs. Cancellation Waiver

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

Do you need protection from the high penalties tour operators and cruise lines charge if you cancel your vacation? You bet you do.

I don't know how many times I've heard people say "I don't plan on canceling this trip, so why do I need trip cancellation insurance?"

I could say the same thing about health insurance. Up until last month, I hadn't missed a day of work for 15 years and certainly had no intention of going to the hospital, so why should I be paying for hospitalization insurance?

Well, after an unexpected illness resulting in a couple of operations and a long hospital stay, I was certainly thankful I had insurance.

That illness, by the way, came about the day after a trip to Paris. If it had been the day before, and I didn't have cancellation insurance, I would have lost the entire cost of my trip.

Now let's say I got sick while in Paris. This is where the difference between cancellation insurance and cancellation waivers makes a difference:

Most cancellation insurance would have covered my medical expenses while in Paris and may even have covered the cost of transporting me home as a medical emergency.

I would also have been reimbursed for the cost of the unused portion of my trip. None of this is usually included in the "cancellation waiver" offered by many tour companies and cruise lines.

Another important feature of trip cancellation insurance not included in cancellation waivers is the "travel delay" clause. For instance, if a snow storm causes your plane to be late getting into Miami and your cruise ship leaves without you, you would be reimbursed, up to the limit on your policy, for the cost of a hotel room and a flight to the next port.

Cancellation waivers usually cover just the cost of the penalties for canceling your trip. Some will not cover even that if you cancel the day of your trip.

If you buy the insurance at the time you make your deposit, most major trip cancellation insurance companies now waive limitations because of "pre-existing" medical conditions. If you have been treated, or are taking medication, for any medical condition within 60 days of purchasing the insurance, make sure this waiver is part of your policy.

Regardless of what type of trip protection you purchase, know what is and what is not covered.

Boys of summer are here!

While this crazy and wacky weather may not seem fitting, it still is technically summer and we all know what that means—it's time for some baseball!

While most of our area high school teams are finished, the Carmel Corsairs are still alive in their quest for a state title. They play in the Schaumburg sectional this weekend against Zion-Benton.

Then you have the pro's. The long balls are flyin' thus far as we near the midway point of the season. Sammy, Mark, Griffey, Jr.—this should be a summer and season to remember with these guys and the likes of many others chasing that 70-dinger mark.

Summer baseball will also be heating up in the area as well. Many area high schools will be playing, both on the sophomore and varsity levels. The sophomores will be competing in the North Shore summer leagues, with play beginning June 10. Meanwhile, the varsity teams will be playing summer ball in IHSA BCA (Baseball Coaches Association) summer leagues, slated to begin play on June 14. And, of course, you have several area teams sponsored under the American Legion.

Now, on a more touching note, I had the pleasure of talking with a gentlemen named Bo Kuriniec the other day. Bo's wife, Lynn, coaches one of the Buffalo Grove teams in the "Buddy" Baseball organization.

Buddy Baseball, for the record, is a handicapped little league which has a summer schedule and All-Star game the weekend of July 4th.

"It's a great chance for kids to play and be a part of the team concept," said Bo. "Whereas elsewhere, they might not have that opportunity."

The "Buddy" Baseball idea is centered around each physically/mentally challenged kid having a buddy in the field physically assisting them. Buddies of the handicapped players are usually kids age 11 through 20.

Bo said there has been a great response, as many areas currently sponsor teams, with the closest to us being Libertyville.

Other areas having teams include Mount Prospect, Elgin, and Park Ridge.

The all-star game will be held at Emmerich Park on the Jay Jones Field. Emmerich Park is located on the corners of Lake-Cook Road and Raupp Blvd, in Buffalo Grove. Barry Newman will be singing the National Anthem and there should be many great and inspirational performances. Look for a more in-depth story in weeks to come!

Finally, let's be careful out there! I was covering a regional semifinal last weekend and of all things, my car was greeted by a foul ball, which took out the left side of my windshield. No harm, no foul. But if you look up at a foul ball heading out of the park, don't think your car is in jeopardy. It is!

Big inning subdues Antioch

Sequoits fall in regional semi's

BY JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The fireworks were plentiful last Saturday at Bowen as the Sequoits and host Waukegan traded blows like a couple of heavyweight fighters.

However, when the final inning came to a close, Antioch found themselves on the short end of a 10-5 decision in the regional semifinals.

"Take away the fourth inning and we're in business," said head coach Paul Petty.

"Our hit and runs and some trickery worked really well for us. It was the fundamental aspects that weren't so good."

Petty's reference to the fourth inning was due to the fact that Waukegan posted five runs to pull in front for good at 7-5.

Antioch, which ended the season 22-15, held a 4-2 advantage after its four-run outburst in the top of the third.

In that inning, Brandon Clutts (1 for 2, RBI, two runs scored) led off with a walk and stole second. He then advanced to third on a Ray George single and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Chris Kocinski (2 for 3, double, RBI).

Then with one out, senior first baseman Pat Straub clubbed a two-run blast over the left-center field wall and a 3-2 Sequoit advantage.

Brian Larie's groundout with two outs then scored Jason Schuler, who earlier walked, to put Antioch ahead, 4-2.

The Sequoits added a run in the top of the fourth inning when Clutts, who led off with a single, scored on an attempted pickoff play on Kocinski at first.

Waukegan then erupted for five runs in its half of the fourth, with the key hit being a two-run double followed by a two-run single that ultimately led to a 7-5 Bulldog advantage.

Waukegan added a three-run homer in the bottom of the sixth to seal the game.

"We hit the ball well today but just had too many errors," added Petty. "I think we let Ken (Cichon) go a little too long. But we were pleased he did what we wanted and that was to go 3 or 4 innings for us."

Cichon (3-5) was saddled with the loss after tossing three and two-third innings of six-hit ball.

Waukegan had to overcome some costly baserunning errors.

"They got themselves out of trouble despite those errors," said Petty. "You never bring a knife to a gunfight and that's what we did today."

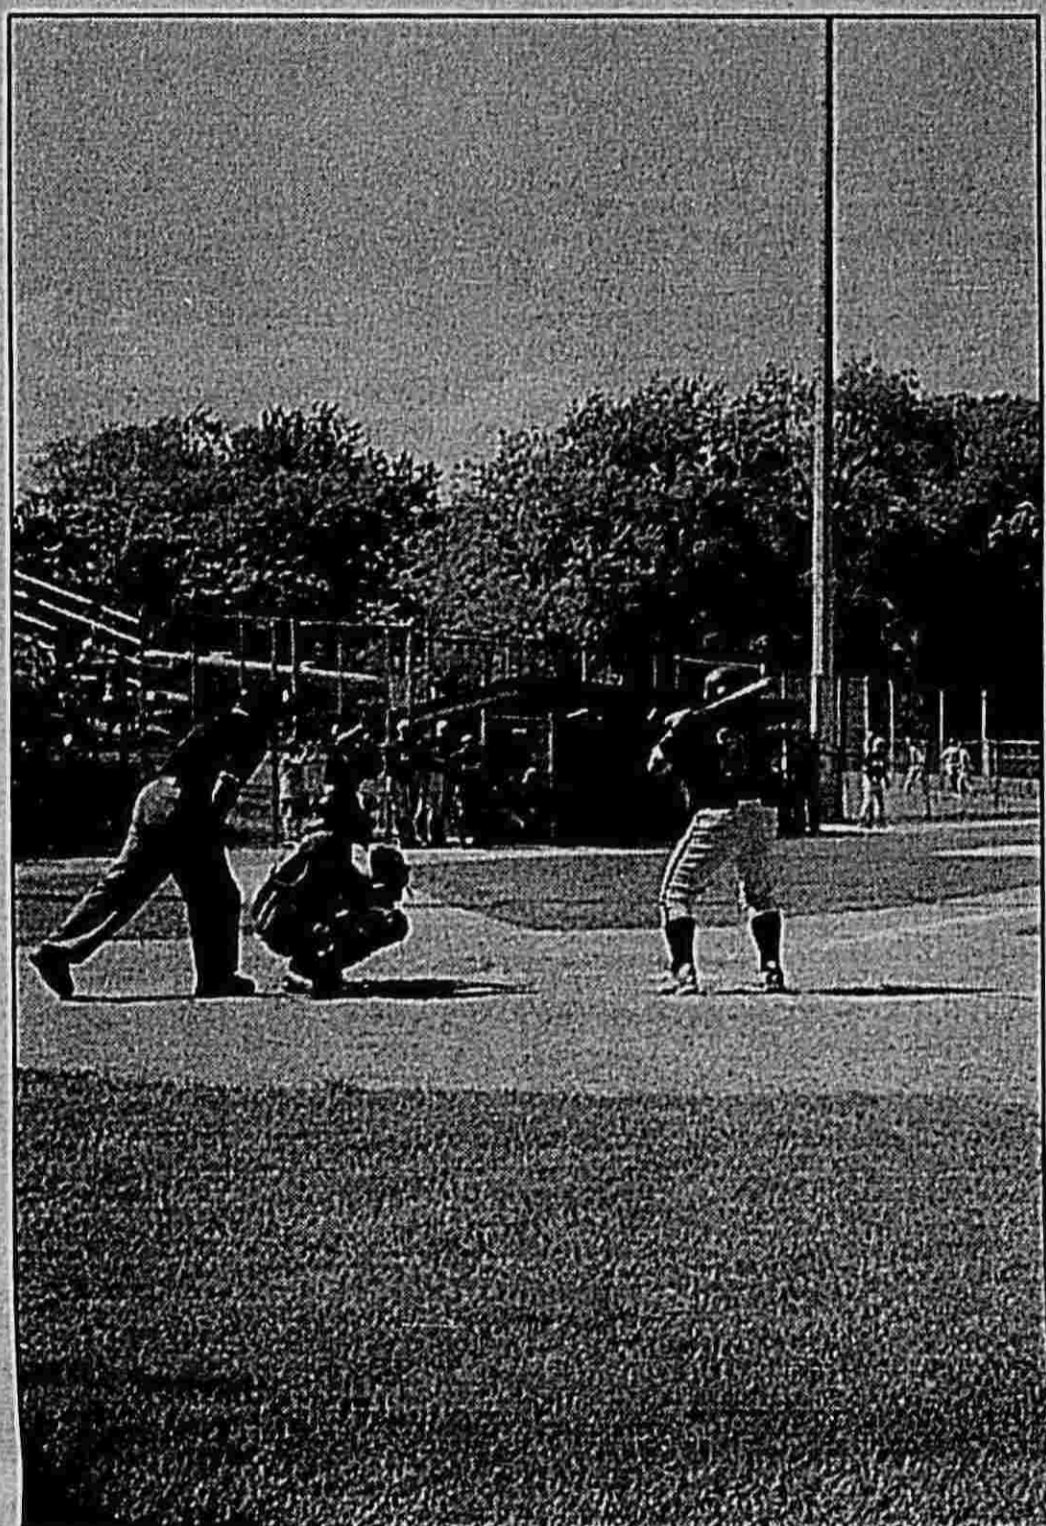

Last Thursday, the Sequoits earned the right to play Waukegan following a 6-3 victory over the fleshy Panthers in the first round of the regionals.

Clutts clubbed a three-run triple with two outs in the bottom of the sixth to put Antioch up, 6-3.

Clutts also picked up the win in relief after the Panthers tied the game at 3-3.

Lady Sequoits advance

BY JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The Antioch varsity softball team's season took another step forward after its 15-2 victory (five innings) over North Chicago in first-round regional action Monday.

The eighth-seeded Sequoits were never contested, as they banged out 19 hits on the afternoon.

"We pretty much controlled the game," said head coach Steve Wapon. "We did what we had to do."

Offensively, Jamie Knuth was 1 for 1 with a three-run homer, Megs Kotlarz 2 for 4 with a solo homer, double, four RBIs and two runs scored, Megan Hagglund 1 for 1 with one run scored, and Nicole Astar run scored.

"We played sound defense," added Wapon.

Last weekend, the Sequoits, currently 10-23 on the year, posted a second-place finish in the Antioch Quad.

Antioch prevailed 15-7 over Regina Dominican in first-round action.

Knuth went 3 for 6 with a triple, three runs scored and four RBIs, Carrie Hagglund 2 for 4 with a run scored and three RBIs, and Kristen Curran 1 for 5, including a three-run triple, to pace the Sequoit offense.

Venissa Taulbee added two hits, including a double and one run scored, and freshman Laura Weber two hits with one RBI and two runs scored.

Sophomore Abby Thomas earned the pitching victory, upping her record to 8-15.

Antioch's fortunes were not as good in the championship, falling 9-2 to Glenbard West.

"They were a pretty tough team," said Wapon. "Hits were a little harder to come by for us."

Curran went 2 for 3 with an RBI and Kotlarz was 1 for 2 with an RBI. Kaeleen O'Connell and Taulbee also collected a hit apiece in the losing effort.

And speaking of Kotlarz, a junior and two-year starter, was recently voted by regional coaches to compete in the IHSA hitting derby. The event will take place at the state finals in DeKalb at Mary Bell Field. Preliminaries begin at 4:30 on Thursday, June 10, with the finals being held Saturday, June 12 at 6 p.m.

Kotlarz currently holds a .398 batting average, .532 on-base percentage, and .656 slugging percentage. In the field, she has recorded 93 (putouts and assists) in 102 chances, good for a .913 fielding percentage.

Other stats and stuff

Second baseman Melissa Bock currently holds a .287 batting average and .485 on-base percentage. Bock has recorded 126 putouts and assists (70, 56) out of 143 chances.

Kotlarz and Bock were recently selected All-conference winners for the North Suburban.

Difficult holes: #3 (par 4, 428), #8 (par 5, 592), #17 (par 5, 545)

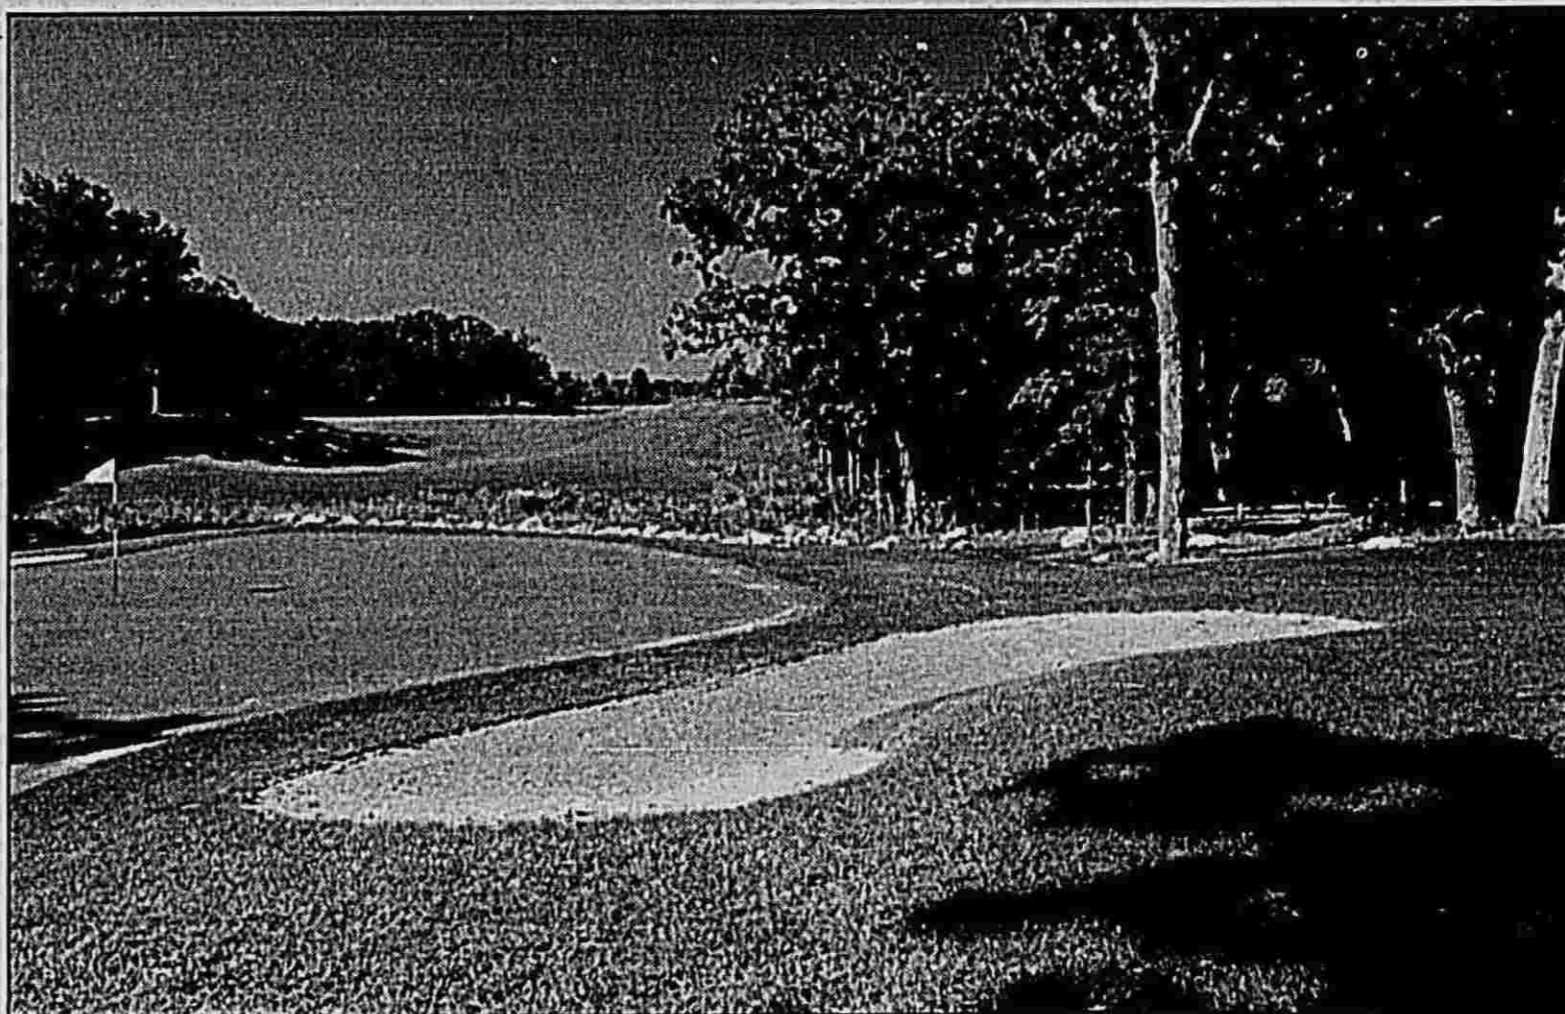

Signature hole: #18 (par 4, 349). A dogleg left, this uphill finishing hole requires accuracy off the tee as well as an approach shot to an undulating green, which is guarded pretty severely by sand bunkers.

Clubhouse amenities: Driving range and putting green available to players. Four Winds offers a full-service restaurant and bar. Banquets and golf outings are also available and encouraged.

Price: Weekdays $39 (cart included); weekends -$52 (cart included). Mon.-Fri. day seniors (50 and over) can play until 10 a.m. for $29 (cart included).

Comment: "The course is very picturesque and in great shape. Many big oak trees and creeks challenge players of all levels. We also have watered fairways." -Brian Smith

Lakeland's rating: 4 out of 5 tees.

BRAE LOCH G.C.

Address: 33600 Route 45, Grayslake
Phone: (847) 223-5542

Par: 70

Holes: 18

Yardage: 5,876

Head P.G.A. Pro/manager: Peggy Hoger (Manager)

Difficulty: Easy-Moderate

Easy holes: #3 (par 3, 121), #6 (par 3, 185), #12 (par 4, 298), #17 (par 4, 291).

Difficult holes: #4 (par 5, 486), #15 (par 5, 559), #16 (par 5, 512).

Signature hole(s): #16 (par 5, 512). A beautiful slight dogleg right par-5 that is forgiving off the tee. Players will probably layup for their second shot because the approach is to a green surrounded by a pond.

Clubhouse amenities: Brae Loch offers a snack shop with full-service bar. Putting surface for practice is available. Banquets and luncheons for weddings and golf outings also available.

Price: Value package during the week is $40 for two people on a cart. This package is also available after 3 p.m. on the weekends.

Pro/Managers's comments: "The course is fairly easy because it is flat and easy to walk. But almost every hole is lined with trees and there are plenty of sand bunkers. A good challenge for all skill levels." -Peggy Hoger

Lakeland's rating: 3 out of 5 tees

THUNDERHAWK GOLF CLUB

Address: 39700 N. Lewis Ave., Beach Park
Phone: (847) 872-HAWK

Par: 72

Holes: 18

Yardage: 6,631 (regular tees)

Head P.G.A. pro: Mike Jones

Difficulty: Moderate-Difficult

Easy holes: #1 (par 4, 394), #2 (par 5, 545), #3 (par 3, 153)

Difficult holes: #9 (par 4, 452), #16 (par 5, 568), #18 (par 5, 559)

Signature hole: #18 (par 5, 559). A terrific par-5 with a generous fairway but tree-lined on both sides. Most likely a three-shot hole with the approach shot heading straight at the clubhouse to an uphill green, which is fronted by a rock incline to a smaller green. Length definitely adds to the test, where if played from the tips, measures 600 yards.

Clubhouse amenities: Thunderhawk offers a full-service pro shop and restaurant and bar. Locker rooms and showers also available. Banquet facilities that seat up to 250 people also available. Enjoy a sandwich in the Tall Tails Grille on the back patio, which overlooks the majestic finishing hole.

Thunderhawk also offers putting greens, grass and matted driving range, a chipping area, and practice bunker available to players/guests. Lessons also available.

Price: Non-residents, weekdays, $89 (includes cart and bucket of range balls). Weekends (non-residents) $94 (includes cart). Note: These rates are a one-price fee, whether walking or riding.

Lake County residents enjoy a $20 discount on all rates. Reservations accepted up to two weeks in advance.

Comment: "Another Robert Trent Jones, Jr. gem. Thunderhawk is a championship designed course built over a 243-acre forest preserve. Built on a 243-acre forest preserve, this bute mixes mature oaks, pristine wetlands and native prairie grasses. Fairways generous and wide but accuracy very crucial on many shots. Challenging to all skill levels, with five sets of tees." -Mike Jones

Lakeland's rating: 5 out of 5 tees.

Comment: "This links-style course offers a variety of challenges. The course is very open but sand traps are in abundant supply, to the tune of approximately 5 and a half acres worth. 'Dr. Mark and the Sutures' headline Cancer Wellness Center's 10-year anniversary party

The Cancer Wellness Center of Northbrook has been helping cancer survivors and their families for 10 years. But their treatment includes some other methods not generally taught in medical school.

"We provide the psychological, social and emotional support for cancer survivors and their families," said Kim Matthews, community relations coordinator.

"Everything we offer is free of charge," she said.

On Saturday, June 6, from noon to 3 p.m., the center is celebrating its 10 Anniversary and National Cancer Survivors Day with a special celebration, featuring carnival games, food and a performance by Dr. Mark and the Sutures, a rock 'n' roll cover band fronted by Highland Park resident Dr. Mark Nolan Hill, a surgeon at Highland Park Hospital and Lake Forest Hospital.

The band has played at community and hospital fund-raisers since 1987, and was started at the request of a neighbor coordinating a block party who wanted some live musical entertainment.

"He asked me to get some guys together to make a band," Hill recalled.

"It was a lot of fun," he said. "We were well received, and more people asked us to play, but we always refused."

Finally, the band decided to play at medical charitable events, fund-raisers, benefits and community events, only asking for payment to cover their expenses.

"We have gotten a lot of publicity on television, radio and many newspapers," Hill said. "We have developed a pretty strong following in the Chicago area."

Last year the band opened for Randy Travis at the Rosemont Horizon and Martina McBride at Lambs Farm US99 Jamboree before 56,000 people.

This year the band will open for Country Thunder in Wisconsin and play at other area events.

The band could get really big if it wanted to, but tries to keep everything low to the ground.

"Things have gotten somewhat explosive," Hill said. "We are a bunch of guys who have families and kids and this keeps us off the streets."

The band consists of Hill on vocals, guitar and keyboards, Adam Hill, Hill's 14-year-old son, on guitar, David Steffen, of Deerfield, on guitar and vocals, Daniel Gavin, of Deerfield, on drums and vocals, and Jamie Mack, of Bolingbrook, on bass and vocals.

"We do a lot of blues music and Eagles," Dr. Hill said. "We just have a good time doing it."

The band averages eight to 10 performances a year. In 1997 the band played a concert with Victor Aitay, concertmaster for the Chicago Symphony, and plans call for the two to play again this year.

The celebration will feature other forms of entertainment, such as a children's moon walk, face painting, clowns, magicians and Elana Ashley and her Puppet Friends.

"It is very family oriented," Matthews said.

Lunch packages of hot dogs or hamburgers and chips and a drink will cost $1, Matthews said.

The center, located on 215 Revere Drive, has a lending library, a 24-hour emergency support hotline, Tai Chi Chih classes, massage and healing techniques.

"Generally we see about 300 people in a week in all different capacities," Matthews said. People from all over can come to the center, and some from as far north as Milwaukee utilize the center's services.

To get to the center, take Highway 41 south and exit at Lake-Cook Road, go west on Lake-Cook a couple blocks to Revere Drive and turn south.

The Sutures are a musical group formed in 1987 on a lark to entertain at a neighborhood block party. Made up of North Shore physicians and businessmen, the group has since performed for dozens of medical charities, benefits, service organizations and community events. From left are David Steffen, Adam Hill, Dr. Mark Nolan Hill, Daniel Gavin and Jamie Mock.

An example of a "Painted Lady."

A beauty contest for houses: 'Painted Ladies'

Applications are now available for the 13th Annual "Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies" competition, a beauty contest for houses. The contest started on Memorial Day and ends on Labor Day. This contest started in Chicago, and has received national attention. Entries will be accepted from a 50-mile area surrounding the city. Any project that has been beautified within the past year is eligible.

Sponsored by the Chicago Paint and Coatings Assoc., properties painted by the owners will be judged separately from those painted professionally. Entries may be Victorian homes but the competition is open to all styles of dwellings, residential and commercial.

Entries will be judged by beauty of paint application, how the colors chosen fit the home or business property, and how the finished project fits its surrounding neighborhood.

This competition originally in San Francisco, where "Painted Ladies" are very much part of the cityscape. The trend of using multiple colors has moved to the Chicago area. Much more attention is given to choice of color and accenting details.

A special awards ceremony is planned after Labor Day with plaques awarded to the winners. Over the years some classic homes and properties have been honored in this competition.

Applications may be obtained from the Chicago Paint and Coatings Assoc., 400 E. State Parkway, Suite 216, Schaumburg 60173. For more information please call 755-9850.

It's not so easy to 'Master' those AKS's

Most animal lovers will tell you they have been that way since childhood, having first become smitten with the family pet. They usually can recite fond tales of their beloved dog, "Barf," or their cat, "Fish Breath."

This is true for me, also, except that I don't have enough space here to list all of our family pet names, considering that my mother changed pets more often than some people change their sheets. I guess you could say she was the Elizabeth Taylor of pet relationships. Dogs, in particular.

Not that I think my mother's "revolving house of dogs" was intentional. It's just that Mom let herself get carried away each time by "puppy charm," expecting that she could just bring a cute little pup home, feed it, bask in the warmth of its puppy breath, and all would be well. (I'm sure Liz thought the same thing about Richard Burton.)

Unfortunately for my mother, dogs are not born knowing how to behave as pets any more than men are born knowing how to behave as husbands. It takes patience, training and a large supply of lingerie to keep them in line.

Oh, wait - that's men. For dogs, you can forget the lingerie - they'll just chew it up, anyway.

While my mother never did make the connection between pets and training, she did eventually solve the problem by getting smaller and smaller dogs. Her last dog was so small, when she brought the thing for a visit I stood on a chair and screamed.

As for me, though I no longer mention these painful memories to my therapist prior to my semi-annual shock treatments, you can imagine how traumatic our family's

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

"It's your pet today, and it's Suzy down the street's pet tomorrow" lifestyle was. No sooner would I confide all my childhood secrets to our latest puppy, than he would be sold to some other family in the neighborhood. I grew up feeling paranoid that all the dogs in the neighborhood were talking about me.

So I vowed that I would not become the Elizabeth Taylor of pet relationships like my mother. And I knew just how I was going to do it - by carefully selecting a dog by breed and temperament, and then properly training it. I remember imagining myself as an adult, with a well-trained Lassie or Rin Tin Tin look-alike at my side, walking up to my mother's door and then, when she opened it, accompanied as I knew she would be by a dog the size of an Egg McMuffin, I would say, "Rin Tin Tin - Look! A rat - Get it!"

But then I grew up, and in the process discovered that dog training wasn't as easy as it seemed. Not that I learned this right away - my first dog was a Golden Retriever, and training her was so effortless that I actually thought I had something to do with it. So when I bred her and kept a male pup from her litter who had show potential, I decided that since I was now Donna Dolittle, I could train my new pup for a show career.

And at first, it seemed I might be right - in my driveway, that dog was a virtual Mr. Doggie Universe, posing and strutting his stuff for the neighborhood. Unfortunately, he must have been secretly practicing a completely different routine that he decided to "surprise" me with in the show ring. Instead of strutting his stuff, he insisted on showing the judge his imitation of a four-legged caboose, trying to hook up with his nose to whatever doggie train was in front of him. My fantasy of becoming a respected dog handler was quickly "derailed."

That humbling experience forced me to acquire more compassion for my mother and her lack of training ability, and it's also why my new pup, Elvis, and I are attending classes at a level appropriate for us both: puppy Kindergarten.

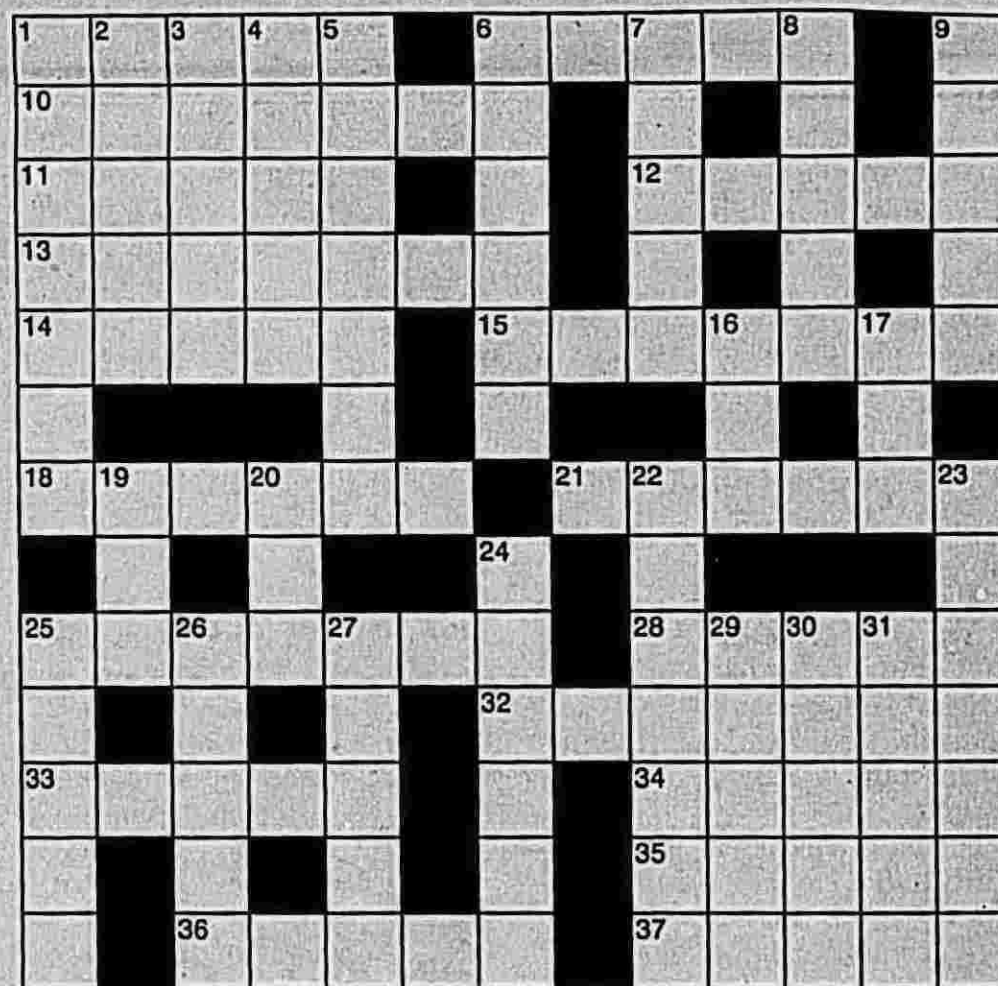

Besides - any time I start to get smug, Elvis brings me back down to earth. For example, last week the class instructor tested us to see if we could get our dog to obey the command "DOWN" without using a treat as bait. Several dogs in the class obeyed. Elvis, on the other hand, sat motionless with his head cocked sideways.

I learned that with treats as an incentive, Elvis is a regular Rin Tin Tin. Without treats, he's Helen Keller.

And I'm no miracle worker - yet.

Arles - March 21/April 20

Don't get overanxious while waiting for a loved one to make an important decision. Pushing him or her only will decrease your chances of hearing the answer that you want. Just be patient. A good friend asks a favor of you. Do what you can for him or her. Sagittarius plays a key role on Friday.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

While it is unlike you, Taurus, you have the urge to go out early in the week. Don't try to fight it. Just ask that special someone to take you out; he or she won't refuse. Enjoy yourself — you deserve it. A loved one gets into trouble on Wednesday. Try not to become involved in the situation. You're sure to regret it if you do.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

A business associate blames you for a mistake that he or she makes. Just defend yourself, and the higher-ups will see that you have nothing to do with the situation. However, don't try to get revenge. It's not worth the effort. A good friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Be honest when responding.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

A minor victory at work has you hungry for more. Don't get overzealous. You've won this battle, but the next one won't be so easy. Enjoy the progress that you've made, but be satisfied with it too — for now. The person whom you've been seeing has a surprise for you. Enjoy!

Leo - July 23/August 23

A good friend needs your assistance with a personal problem. While you want to help, don't get involved. There's too much going on that you don't know about. Helping this person only will get you into a lot of hot water. A co-worker invites you out. Say yes, because it's sure to be a good time.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Be sincere with an acquaintance whom you don't really like. There's no reason to feign affection for this person. He or she has no influence over your life. A loved one introduces you to an interesting person. Get to know him or her better. It definitely will be worth the effort.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let a minor disagreement with a close friend get you down. Neither of you really means what you say. Take some time to cool down, and then call him or her to talk things out. He or she doesn't want this relationship to end any more than you do. Virgo plays a key role.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't let a co-worker distract you from an important task that you have to accomplish. The higher-ups are counting on you to get this done. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify the relationship. Is this what you really want? Think about it before you answer him or her. Taurus is involved.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Try to control your temper when you get into an argument with loved ones, Sagittarius. Getting angry only will make the situation worse. While venting your anger will make you feel better, it is sure to make everyone else involved upset. Think of them before you fly off the handle.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

You have to be aggressive this week when it comes to something that you want. No one is going to give it to you — you have to go after it. Just stay focused, and you're sure to get it. Those close to you will be impressed with your efforts. Pisces plays an important role on Tuesday.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Just say no to an acquaintance who wants to involve you in a scheme. This person has no idea what he or she is getting into. Try to dissuade him or her from actually going through with it. A close friend asks for your advice about a personal matter. Be honest when responding.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Try to help a co-worker who gets into some hot water. He or she can't get out of this mess without you. Do what you can. A loved one volunteers you to organize a family event. While you're upset about this, you have to do it. Relax — it's sure to be fun.

A positive response is not always positive

I can remember, "a long time ago, in a galaxy far, far away," when I was in graduate school, learning about a set of studies that were done. Don't ask me to tell you who did them or exactly when they were done, because I don't think I could tell you right now without some serious digging.

LOOK TOO FAMILIAR?

Stop bad behavior in its tracks, before it gets out of control and ruins your child's life!

Order Dr. Sherri Singer's book today!
(847) 604-3658

This book has created behavior change in as little as one week!

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer,
Psy.D.

They will interest you, though! I guarantee it! These were studies about the effect of power and positive responses on violent behavior in kids. The findings suggested strongly that if a child watched someone commit a violent act and then get reinforced for it somehow, by gaining power or control or something else positive, the child viewing the violent act would be more likely to commit a violent act. These studies also suggested that when a child commits a violent act directly and gets some form of positive attention for it, the likelihood of repetition of that kind of act becomes very good.

Why am I quoting all these old studies now? Well, let's ask ourselves, given this information, how the news coverage of the recent heinous acts committed by kids might be affecting other kids? We keep becoming amazed at the amount of copycats out there. I am not amazed at all and firmly believe that unless people in this society begin to really understand why these things are occurring, it will not stop.

Of course, we adults look at the recent carnage as nothing but sheer horror and something to be looked upon with fear, revulsion and the strong desire to have it stopped. What do you think all the recent copycat kids were thinking when they saw the coverage? Let me tell you what I have seen and what I haven't seen and maybe we can get some insight. What I have seen on virtually every news source available is the constant, adrenaline pumping, heart-stopping, sensationalism that creates the same roller coaster feeling someone might get at a horror movie (of course, we all know that those don't draw anyone...yeah right!!) I have seen the glorification of hype and excitement around the events. I have seen all of these killers get constant media attention. Virtually every one of them, except the last two have gotten to see themselves in the public eye for quite some time. I have seen people speak forgiveness for the killers. I have even heard talk about some of the prior killers and how they are now on the "honor roll" in prison and expecting to get out soon to have a fresh start. Something their victims and victim's families will never get the chance to have. Boy, if I were an "off balance" kid in need of some big time attention and I saw all of this, it wouldn't look too bad! Especially if I were one of those kids who was great at those wonderful shooting games.

Now let me tell you what I haven't seen. I haven't seen any punishment whatsoever. It is a well known fact that Sociopaths do not live in fear of hurting someone else.

They don't have any feelings about that. They, do however, feel fear if harm or difficulty comes to them and only them. Now, when a sociopath watches the news and observes fame and glory and attention with virtually no punishment at all, we as a society have to start asking ourselves if this might be contributing to the consistent parade

jazzercise

Celebrating 30 years of fitness, friendship and fun!

The wheels are in motion at Jazzercise, where plans for 1999 celebrations to honor the company's "30 years of fitness, friendship and fun" as the world's largest dance-fitness program are being concocted and fine-tuned. Invitations to Jazzercise '99 in San Diego, California from August 5-8, 1999 are rolling out in full force, calling on the vast student and instructor network throughout the U.S. and 38 countries around the world to attend this dynamic fitness convention. And more than 4,000 are expected to join in and "party like it's 1999!" Convention highlights include:

- A stellar lineup of celebrated speakers including Judi Sheppard Missett, founder and CEO of Jazzercise; Peter Vidmar, 1984 U.S. Olympic Gold Medal Gymnast; Marci Shimoff, co-author of Chicken Soup for the Soul books
- An array of exciting workout sessions, e.g. Jazzercise by energetic guest instructors from Italy, Japan, Mexico, Canada and other foreign countries; Street Jam; Kickboxing; Yoga; and Dynamic Walking with a variety of international fitness professionals.

- A giant finale class led by Judi Sheppard Missett with 4,000 participants

- A multitude of networking opportunities with fellow fitness enthusiasts and certified instructors

- A tantalizing shopping expo providing conventioners the opportunity to purchase their workout gear and pampering products all under one roof!

Dynamic instructors teach well attended classes and make a positive impact on people's lives. The strategy behind this is three-part: 1) Develop innovative fitness programs to motivate and inspire, 2) Teach in locations that are convenient for the people, and 3) Educate people about fitness; that it is a step toward optimal health and a better quality of life, and that they should take responsibility for attaining and maintaining personal fitness. So, for Missett, what could be a better way to achieve this than through Jazzercise?

SINGER: Response not always positive of debris that we see nightly? I wonder what the difference might be if every day and every night, we watched the perpetrators of any heinous offense digging ditches or some other punishment on a constant basis? I wonder if kids watched the killers get really punished for their offensive and disgusting behavior, if there might be a stop to this somewhere. I believe there would be. Some of you might be thinking that this is harsh of me to say. It isn't. We have a real problem in our country with this. I spend every day of my life working with parents helping them know that it is o.k. to punish and set appropriate limits. That it is o.k. to tell your kids that their bad behavior deserves an appropriate response. That it is o.k. to let your kids know that when their behavior harms others, that they will have to give up something important in their life. That it's o.k. to not hug a child who has just hurt someone else. We have a real resistance to this society-wide. In fact, I would go as far as saying that I believe we are one of the only societies that coddles our criminals to the point of nausea.

You may be saying to yourselves now, "But these are only kids!" If we don't get over that philosophy and soon, our society is doomed. When kids do adult type offenses and take lives or destroy lives, they are no longer just kids anymore. They are lethal weapons and should be treated as such. Bill Clinton told us that we have to learn how to protect our kids from violence. I have news for him. The violence is being committed by the kids. How about we protect all of our society from all people who have demonstrated an absolute disregard for human life. Kids or adults. How about we protect all of society from here on out by making sure that people who threaten are never allowed to have the privilege of unsupervised freedom again. Freedom is an earned privilege.

You see news stories every day and they disappear as fast as you see them. A few weeks later, you might find yourself asking what ever happened to this killer or that killer. You never see the actual consequence of their actions. These kids are also not seeing the result of the other kids actions, except in the pain that was caused. Sociopaths love pain caused to others. They thrive on it. The equation cannot work the way it is now.

You can clearly see the effect of what I am speaking about when you look at the last in this string of "would be kid killers." I hear that this one in Georgia was jumping up and down laughing when he was shooting his gun. Yes laughing. His tears didn't happen until AFTER he got the spotlight. After that, someone (I think the principal?) consoled him by putting his arm around him. What is going on here? Permanent damage happens to the victims, but the criminals always seem to get another chance along with a lot of empathy!

If "off balance" kids perceive power, attention, glory and excitement around these acts without witnessing anything negative happening to the perpetrators, it's a proven dangerous mix.

What every parent needs to know to keep their kids on the right track!" For an appointment, please call (847) 604-3483.

ElderCARE offers health assessment to homebound elderly

Age and poor health often restrict a person's world to the inside of their home. While they may be in need of medical care, the frail elderly are often unable to get to seek medical care because of their physical limitations and/or lack of transportation. Victory Community ElderCARE, Waukegan, is changing all that.

"We now offer people who are advanced in age and unable to leave their homes the opportunity to receive an in-home health assessment," says Carole Johnson, R.N., B.S.N., congregational health coordinator for Victory Community ElderCARE. "Since we're able to offer the health assessments at no charge, a person's limited income does not become an issue."

People in need of such services are identified to ElderCARE by their churches or other community agencies that serve Lake County's older population. Following a request for service, a volunteer registered nurse visits the elderly person at home. During the assessment, the nurse identifies areas of need and provides education about medication, nutrition and other health issues.

"The ElderCARE nurse also provides referrals to other resources aimed at improving or maintaining the person's healthy lifestyle, reducing isolation and coping with distress of the mind, body and spirit," says Johnson.

Each health assessment is individualized to the person. Assessment data is gathered through observation, measurement for important signs such as blood pressure, and interviews with the older person, family members and or in-home caregivers.

A review of medications is an important part of all health assessments. Current prescriptions and over-the-counter medicines are reviewed through a computerized reference system for possible drug interactions. This review provides the person and his/her caregiver with up-to-date information to reduce the chance of adverse drug effects and to aid in the success of the drug treatment. Such information is essential in improving the health of older adults because "as many as 100,000 deaths in American hospitals each year may be linked to adverse drug events, including drug interactions", according to a 1998 University of Toronto study.

At Victory Community ElderCARE, a registered nurse case manager coordinates referrals for the elderly to community agencies, clergy, physicians, support groups and to ElderCARE community volunteers. These volunteers provide services such as grocery shopping, telephone reassurance, friendly visits and escort to medical appointments.

"By recruiting, training and coordinating volunteers from area churches and the community-at-large, Victory Community ElderCARE works cooperatively with community organizations to develop needed services to promote health, reduce isolation and encourage independence for elders in need," says Johnson.

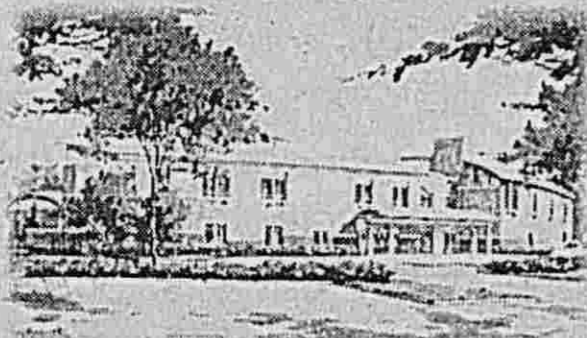

For more information on in-home health assessments through the Victory Community ElderCARE program, call 360-4004, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Hotline offers advice on arthritis

The American Physical Therapy Association (APTA) will operate a toll-free hotline on arthritis on June 5-6, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., eastern time. The hotline is sponsored by APTA's Section on Geriatrics and section on Orthopedics. The toll-free number is 1-888-385-2782.

Physical therapists will answer callers' questions on treating and managing osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, and other forms of the disease.

"There are tips that physical therapists can offer to help people with arthritis to avoid fatigue and flare-ups and to make their homes more 'arthritis friendly.' This simple information can make a big difference in the quality of life for a person with arthritis," said APTA President Jan K. Richardson, PT, PhD, OCS.

The hotline is offered as a public service to help educate consumers about ways to make living with arthritis easier and less painful. It is not recommended as a substitute for a visit to a physical therapist or other health care professional.

The American Physical Therapy Association is a national professional organization representing more than 74,000 members.

Disability Web site enlightens deaf and visually impaired

Infinitec Inc. posted a new special section, 'Accessing Entertainment', on its dynamic disability Web site, www.infinitec.org. This section reports on the most recent advances in multimedia entertainment regarding access by people with auditory or visual impairments.

Site visitors can explore technologies such as descriptive narration for blind consumers, assistive listening devices, the Caption Media Program for deaf or hard-of-hearing consumers, and more. Infinitec provides information on new systems just beginning to appear in movie theaters, on public televisions or in live theater.

The Infinitec Inc. Web site serves people with disabilities, their families and other caregivers by providing a multitude of resources related to assistive technology and access, ranging from adaptive computers to adaptive sports, vehicles and modified homes. Now the site reviews new entertainment vehicles, including electronic books and magnification televisions.

The entertainment section also explains specific points in the Americans with Disabilities Act regarding its provisions for access inside theaters and other public accommodations, such as concert halls and stadiums. Visitors also can learn how to activate the captioning features on their television sets, locate purchasing information on closed-circuit or large screen television sets, or find captioned programming and interpretive theater productions.

New features in assistive technology appear quarterly. The objective is to provide resources and useful information on every aspect of daily living, learning, working and recreation. Past features are archived for new visitors to access.

Infinitec Inc. is the national assistive technology project created by United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago and United Cerebral Palsy Associations Inc., Washington, D.C. Infinitec strives to remove barriers to people with disabilities by making information about assistive technology and funding resources easily available.

Car seat safety check June 12

Safety experts estimate that at least eight out of 10 child safety seats are installed or used incorrectly. To help educate parents about proper child safety seat use, a free child safety seat inspection will be held from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, June 12 at Belvidere Mall, 2107 Belvidere Drive in Waukegan (Lewis Ave. and Belvidere Rd.). The inspection is sponsored by Provena Saint Therese Medical Center and its auxiliary, the Lake County health Department, Anthony Pontiac and the Lake County Family YMCA.

Certified inspectors will be on hand to check child safety seats for proper installation and appropriate usage. Spanish-speaking inspectors will be available. Children's activities are planned, including finger casting, face painting, health screenings, and a child identification program with fingerprinting. Members of the Waukegan police and fire departments will be on hand.

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death among children. Unbuckled and/or improperly restrained children are twice as likely to die or be injured as the result of a motor vehicle crash.

TRAVEL AND VACATION

B12/Lakeland Newspapers

June 4, 1999

Optimize your traveling experience with summer common sense tips

"Summer is the perfect travel season for many reasons: lower fares to off-season destinations such as the Caribbean and the perfect opportunity for family vacations since children are out of school," says WOR Radio Network's travel expert Valarie D'Elia.

"Whether it's a business trip or a personal getaway, to ensure a wonderful experience, follow the golden rule, the three P's of travel: Pleasure = Planning and Preparation."

According to D'Elia, the most important advice is to keep essentials with you at all times. Besides credit cards and photo identification, there are other items never to leave home without -- for example, Shout Wipes, instant, portable stain treater towels. As on-the-go travelers do not always have easy access to laundry facilities or a quick change of clothes, a small spill can cause a big headache. By keeping Shout Wipes on hand, stains can be treated on the spot.

PLAN

- For shorter trips, consider flying to enjoy as much time as possible. With longer vacations, a car ride allows more leisurely sight-seeing along the way.

- Check out travel magazines and the Sunday newspaper travel section at your local library. If traveling for business, try to schedule an extra day for sight-seeing.

- Call the convention and visitors bureau or tourist office of your travel destination to request an information packet or coupons for restaurants and special attractions.

- Search Web sites such as www.fodors.com, www.Preview-Travel.com and www.1Travel.com to research travel destinations, airfares, hotels, rental cars and sight-seeing highlights. If traveling by car, consult your local motorclub.

- Consider visiting an off-season winter destination like Iceland or Europe to enjoy lower rates and less crowded attractions.

PREPARE

- Never leave home without the essentials. Use a comprehensive checklist to help you remember what to pack.

- Take traveler's checks in case of emergency, but keep in mind ATM's are widely available and eliminate the need to carry extra cash. ATM's also offer better currency exchange rates when overseas.

- Alleviate jet lag by limiting alcohol and caffeine. Drink plenty of water to prevent dehydration and eat lightly on the flight. Stop often on long drives, switch drivers and keep air circulating to prevent fatigue.

- Safeguard luggage by carrying it on the plane and not packing valuables inside. Put labels and colorful ribbon or tape on your luggage so you can easily identify it. When stopping on the road, take important items with you if a vehicle is left alone.

- All trips should be enjoyable and trouble-free. Be flexible, venture off the beaten track, try new cuisine and converse with the locals. Try to leave worries at home and pack a sense of humor!

TRAVEL CHECK LIST

The Most Common Items Never to Leave Home Without

Forgetting to pack essential items when you're on-the-go can cause much unneeded aggravation. By storing a check list in a suitcase pocket or carry-on case, travelers are sure to "unpack" this quick, easy reference list and use it as a guide anytime they're preparing for a trip.

Wisconsin Dells kicks off the season with Balloon Rally

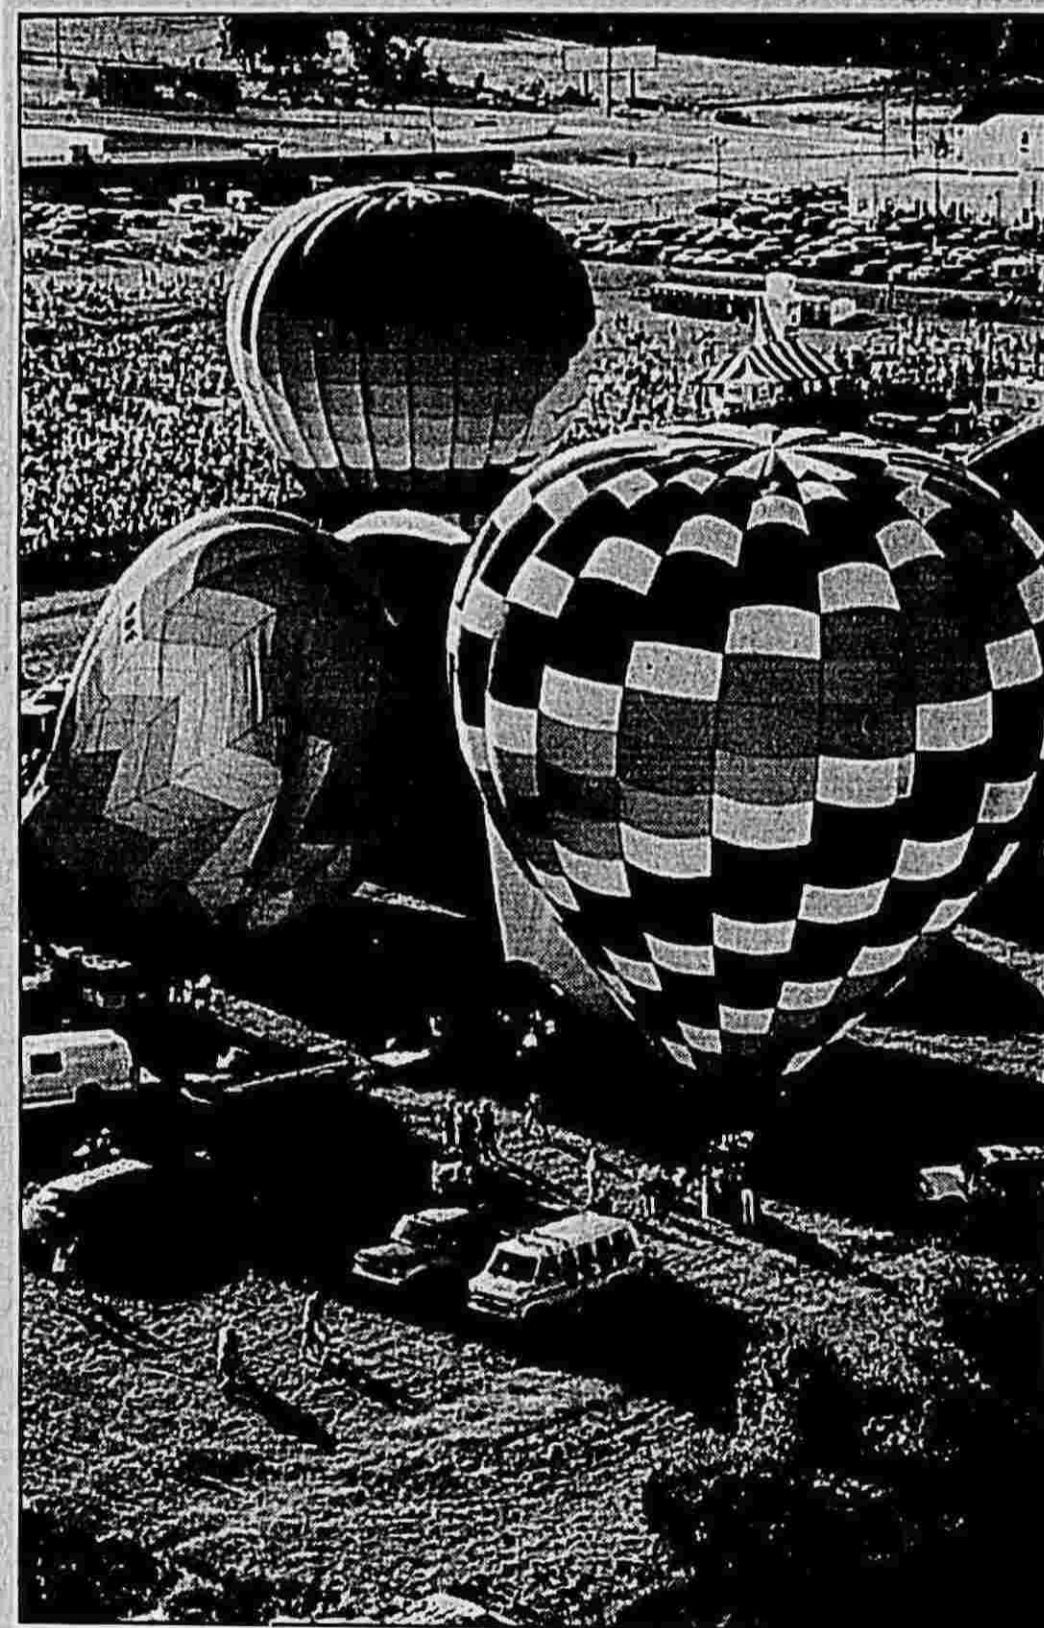

The 24th Annual Great Wisconsin Dells Balloon Rally, June 5 and 6, promises to be spectacular with a kaleidoscope of hot air balloons from around North America. With more than 90 different balloons, including the Famous Footwear Shoe and a huge Eagle, the Great Wisconsin Dells Balloon Rally is considered to be the third-largest hot air ballooning event in the nation.

A nationally-sanctioned competition, the Great Wisconsin Dells Balloon Rally is expected to attract more than 90,000 visitors as the balloons launch on three separate occasions, Saturday at 6:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. and Sunday at 6:30 a.m. (weather permitting). During the morning launches, balloonists compete to earn points toward the 1999 national competition based upon their skill and accuracy in selected balloon tasks. The Saturday evening launch features a mass ascension of all 90 balloons.

In addition to the breathtaking launches, other events are scheduled to entertain visitors throughout the weekend. On Saturday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., balloonists will answer questions during "Ask the Pilot" sessions. At this time spectators will be allowed to personally examine the balloon baskets while learning more about hot air ballooning. Live music by The Swing Crew will entertain guests from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. and clowns will entertain with face painting and balloon animals from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday afternoon.

The 24th Annual Great Wisconsin Dells Balloon Rally will be held at the intersection of Hwy. 12 and Gasser Road, near exit 92 of I-90/94 in Lake Delton, Wis. COUNTY DIGEST

Safety check nets 58 arrests

Illinois State Police and the Lake County Sheriff's Department conducted a roadside safety check at Illinois 59 and Grass Lake Road over the Memorial Day weekend.

Rick Rokusek, District Two Commander, said deputies from the sheriff's department issued 58 arrest citations during the five-hour detail.

Of those, seven arrests were for driving under the influence of alcohol, two arrests for driving on a suspended drivers license, 14 arrests for operation on an uninsured motor vehicle, 13 arrests for occupant restraint violations, three arrests for illegal transportation of alcohol, four arrests for illegal consumption of alcohol by a minor, eight arrests for drug violations and two arrests for subjects wanted on criminal warrants.

State ok's budget

State lawmakers approved a $43 billion budget that provides more money for funding education as well as local improvement projects, according to State Sen. Adeline Geokaris (R-Zion).

For elementary and secondary education, the budget totals reflect an increase of $394 million. In addition to placing 51 percent of all new revenues toward education, the budget allows for full funding of categorical programs, such as free school lunches and textbook reimbursements.

The budget also included funding for numerous local projects, including $11 million for the Lake County University Center.

Tavern owners upset

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI & LESLIE PIOTROWSKI

Many tavern owners in unincorporated Lake County are upset about a new ordinance to close the bars an hour earlier and would like the county to repeal it.

Don Tiffany, president of the Tavern Owners Association of Lake County, which represents about 85 bars, said he plans to draft a letter to the liquor commission addressing the tavern owners' concerns.

The ordinance, which was approved last month, takes effect July 1. It provides that bars in unincorporated Lake County must close by 1 a.m. on weekdays and 2 a.m. on weekends. Previously, there was a 2 a.m. closing time on weekdays and 3 a.m. on weekends.

Tiffany said some of the night clubs in the unincorporated areas rely on their late night business on weekends to survive.

"I think before they passed it they should have notified all of the tavern owners," said Tiffany. "We were really unaware anything was coming up. The whole idea is they should have contacted the people directly involved. A lot of tavern owners are very upset about it."

The intent of the ordinance changes, according to county officials, was to prevent people from bar hopping from villages that have earlier closing times to bars in the unincorporated areas. It was also an effort to cut down on drinking and driving.

"There are a number of bars in residential areas in my district," said County Board member Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside). "When other bars close at 1 or 2 a.m., residents experience more traffic of people driving through their neighborhoods or down the Chain in their boats for another hour of drinking."

"I felt the county should take a lead and listen to the concerns of its constituents and help control the nuisance that these neighborhoods have to experience," she said.

New funds may help Metra expand

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

A new federal funding package could pave the way for expanded Metra rail service between Antioch and Chicago.

The House Appropriations and Transportation Subcommittee approved a transportation funding bill that includes $25 million for the expansion of Metra service along three lines, including the North Central line.

The North Central line extends from Antioch south through Lake Villa, Grayslake and Mundelein south to Franklin Park, where it hooks up with Metra's east-west lines into Chicago. It was established in August 1996 and was the first new commuter service offered by Metra in more than 70 years.

The train has seen phenomenal growth in ridership since its inception, according to Metra spokesman Frank Malone. The line has seen an increase of 126 percent in ridership between 1997 and 1998; the first two full years of the line's operation.

"The expansion of the North Central line is an absolute key to allowing Metra to handle the growth (in ridership) in Lake County," said Malone.

Despite this growth, the Federal Transit Administration in April had decided not to recommend funding for needed track improvements to expand the rail service. However, with the help of U.S. Rep. John Porter's office, county officials were able to get funding for the project.

University Center still faces obstacles

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

There is good news and bad news for Lake County's University Center project.

The good news is the Illinois General Assembly voted to reauthorize $11 million in state funding for construction of the University Center that had been stripped from the budget.

But, while the state has agreed to foot its share of the bill, the county has a major obstacle to overcome.

Where will it come up with the $11 million it needs to fund its half of the project?

County officials had rested their hopes in a bill that would have allowed the county to establish a 1/4 percent sales tax, subject to voter approval, to pay for capital projects like the University Center.

The legislation passed the House and was approved by a Senate committee but Senate President James "Pate" Phillip refused to bring the matter to the floor before the legislative session ended.

County Administrator Karl Nollenberger serves on an ad hoc committee to come up with funding alternatives for the University Center. He said a county sales tax would have generated $15 million if the voters approved of the plan in a referendum.

A portion of those funds would have gone to construction of the University Center. It also would have helped the county fund improvements to its transportation system.

More of Oscar's Winning Words of Wisdom XXII

Last year in early spring, I shared some of the wisdom from Oscar Self's 55-year collection of quotes and sayings. I called them Oscar's winners.

This is a five-column month, when I take a little liberty with the last column's content. So, I'd like to share more of the wit and wisdom from Oscar's notebooks.

Health Thoughts

- Fatness - The past tense of fitness.

All-brand truck center keys one-stop center

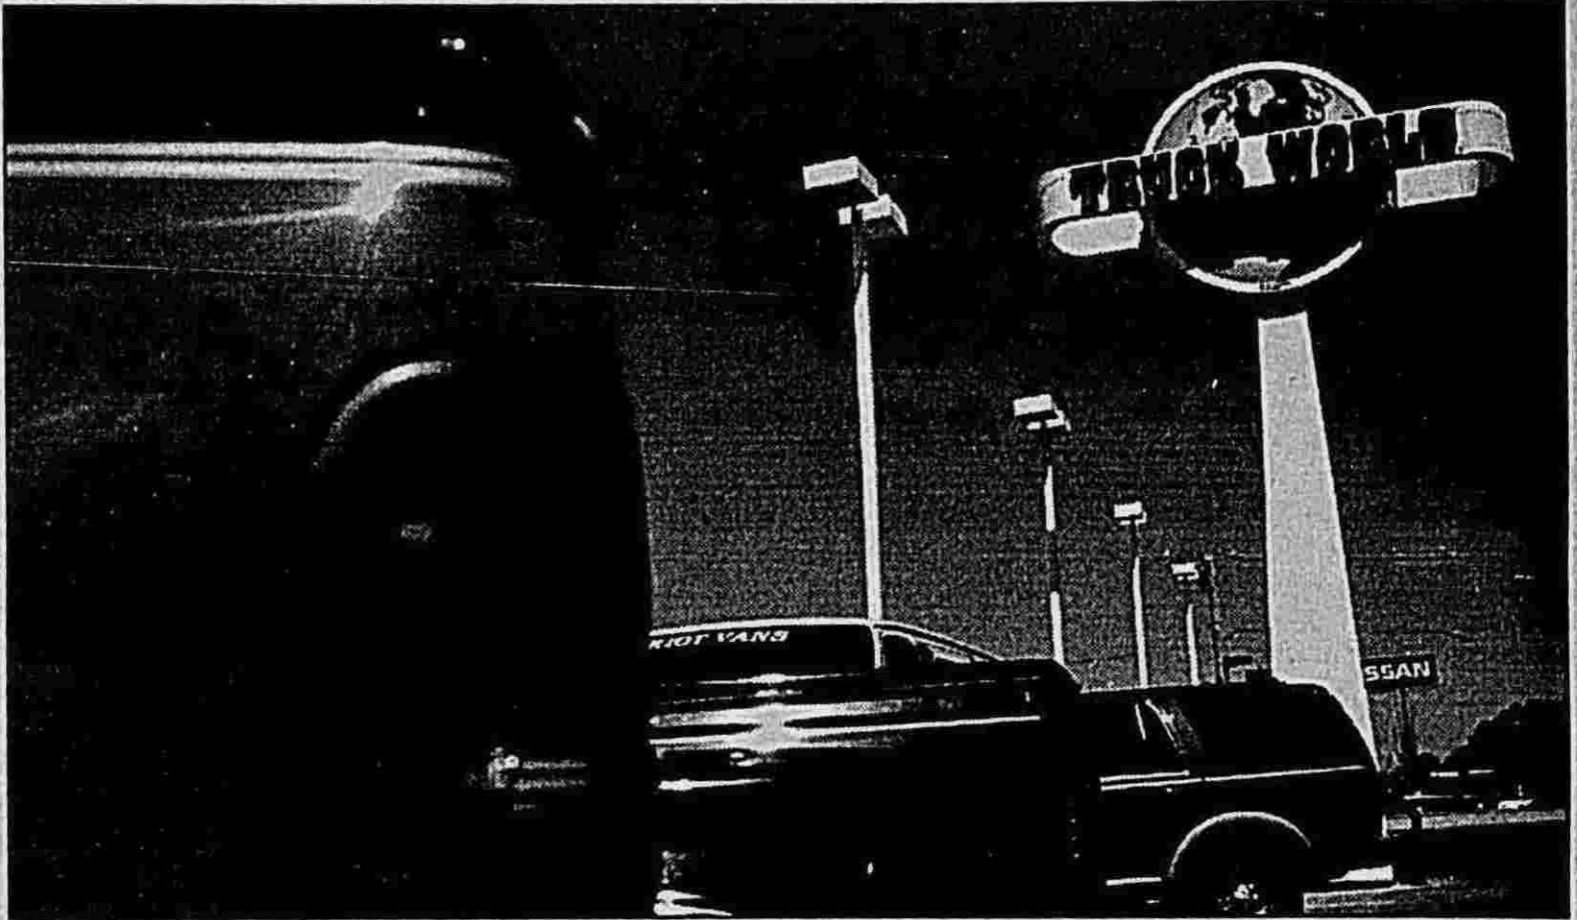

America's most wanted vehicles are on parade at an all-brands, heavily discounted "super store" in Waukegan.

A new concept in bringing together all the hottest models in light trucks, SUV's and mini vans at one location is the brainchild of Jeff Entratter, president and owner of Union Nissan, Inc., a successful fixture on the Lake County automotive scene located at 3315 W. Grand Ave.

Entratter has titled the venture Truck World, adjacent to Union Nissan, and designed the center to become a beehive for motorists in the market for like-new and high quality used pick-ups, SUV's and vans at below market prices.

"You name it, we have them all at Truck World—Fords, Chevrolet's, Dodges, foreigners. You don't have to waste time going from dealer to dealer. These are the hottest, most popular vehicles in the business, all in one place," enthused Entratter, 44, a long-time Waukegan auto merchant who is celebrating his sixth anniversary as a Nissan dealer.

"Best of all," Entratter continues, "consumers can obtain the model they want at savings from $3,000 to $7,000." Typical savings translate up to $100 per month on consumer loan payments, according to Entratter, who started selling cars when he was 19.

What shoppers will find at Truck World, identified by a distinctive world globe sign high above the sales lot, will be a selection of 250 to 300 vehicles of all brands of the most sought out truck-frame models. The section offered ranges from program vehicles and traditional used to "virtual" new units with no miles on the odometer—"with plastic still on the seats."

Entratter said he is not performing any slight-of-hand magic in offering hot, short supply vehicles at unbelievably low prices. What Truck World is doing, Entratter explained, is sourcing vehicles from independent brokers who are taking advantage of fluctuations in the dollar.

Bears key support for 50 youth jobs

A group of current and former Chicago Bears combined with interested Lake County business leaders is providing the economic muscle to support a highly acclaimed student summer job program.

The ex-Bears provide name recognition for the Youth Conservation Corps Celebrity Golf Outing, the majority fund raising endeavor of the not-for-profit corporation that funds 50 students for a work-study program with the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist.

This year's golf outing will take place Wednesday, June 16, at Countryside Golf Course, Mundelein.

Approximately 300 golfers are expected this year, according to Jack Beavers of Hawthorn Woods, vice president of human relations at Motorola/Libertyville and co-chair of the event that begins with a 10 a.m. instructional session conducted by professional golfers.

Beavers said a tent will be erected for cocktails and dinner, and a live silent auction that will be part of the festivities.

Jim Morrissey, former Bears linebacker and honorary YCC board member, is heading the delegation of sports luminaries participating. Tom Waddle, noted for his spectacular catches from his wide receiver position, said ex-Bears take their YCC involvement seriously.

"We do our best to make the event enjoyable. YCC is great cause," stated Waddle, who also resides in Hawthorn Woods. Waddle said Jim Schwantz, a current Bears player, will replace Ron Rivera, a past YCC golf outing participant, who now is on the Philadelphia Eagles coaching staff.

Golf, lunch and dinner is available for $150 per person. Golf and lunch is only $135 each. A foursome with a celebrity is available for $1,650. Interested players can call 526-4782.

Lake County corporations have been strong YCC supporters since 1981. The YCC advisory committee reorganized as a 501 (c) (3) not-for-profit corporation in 1994.

Jim Flury of Deerfield, an AT&T executive and vice president of the YCC board, said support from the business community never is lacking. Some corporations contribute $15,000 to support an entire six-person crew.

County upgrades radio with digital technology

The County of Lake has awarded a contract to Ericsson Inc., of Lynchburg Va., for a digital two-way radio communications system to be utilized by public safety and public service agencies.

With purchase, Lake County joins other Illinois agencies in using Ericsson's Enhanced Digital Access Communications System (EDACS®) for critical communications system in the state.

The contract, valued at more than $6 million, is for an 800 MHz EDACS which will handle dispatch and digital radio communications. The proposed four-site, eight-channel system provides communications flexibility and can operate in both analog and digital modes, enabling users on the new system to communicate with other conventional and trunked radio users in nearby jurisdictions.

"Our current radio system does not provide the necessary coverage," stated Lake County Communications Director Garry Gorr. "We have a lot of congestion on the system and are plagued with interference from other frequency users. With the implementation of EDACS, we are looking forward to a public safety system that provides portable radio coverage county-wide."

Approximately 525 users of the Lake County system will be equipped with Ericsson's LPE portables and Orion mobiles. The county provides services to roughly 583,000 citizens within 470 square miles.

A local organization, Radicom, Inc. had been selected to provide the installation and maintenance of the Lake County system. The equipment for the Lake County system will be manufactured at the Ericsson facility in Lynchburg.

Lake Zurich Y started; Aim for February occupancy

J. Andrew Jones, Senior Partner of MTI Construction Services, LLC, broke ground on a new 35,000 sq. ft. YMCA in Lake Zurich. The facility is located on a 23-acre site at 1025 Old McHenry Road.

"Development of this new YMCA will provide a tremendous resource for the families and businesses in the area," said Steve Dahlin, Executive Director of the Elmhurst Township YMCA. "Population in this area is predicted to rise 40% over the next ten years. In light of this, we have planned a regional facility to service 14 surrounding communities that will accommodate this type of growth."

The new two-story YMCA is designed as a flagship facility for the organization. A high-tech fitness area will feature weight machines that record workout results, and provide suggestions upon each use of the machine based on previous performance. An indoor pool and running track will be incorporated into the building layout for the future implementation. Spacious locker rooms and parking for 350 vehicles are additional amenities.

Eight acres of wetlands will be accessible through walking paths, boardwalks and kiosks. A one-acre pond with a pier will be used for both fishing and ice skating.

Ernest Spina of MTI Construction Services, LLC, Des Plaines, is the project manager. Northbrook, Illinois-based Sente & Rubel Architects is the project architect. Completion of the facility is scheduled for February, 2000.

Bank joins youth effort

First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBO) with locations in Antioch and Gurnee has joined America's Promise, a movement created by General Colin Powell designed to help America's Youth.

"We are joining a group of community banks who are committed to helping young people in the communities they serve," said Karen Kubin, marketing and public relations representative for the bank.

America's Promise was formed by General Powell in an effort to mobilize the Nation with the goal of ensuring that our youth have access to the fundamental resources they need to become successful adults.

"Joining America's Promise means that we promise to continue sponsoring youth related activities in the future," said Kubin.

Currently, FNBO supports a wide variety of youth activities that include: Support of local Boy and Girl Scout Troops, 4-H Clubs, Youth Baseball, Soccer, Swim Teams, Special Olympics, United Way, and various grade programs.

Johnsburg—History is scheduled to be made Monday, June 7, when the Johnsburg Community Club will vote on allowing Patricia Bingman to become the first female member of the 77-year-old club.

The community service organization was founded in 1922, and has never had a woman among its members, which at one time numbered 350 but are now down to 248.

Bingman, assistant superintendent of Johnsburg School District 12, wants to join the club for its networking and socializing functions. She said she wanted to join the club for a long time, but always thought members needed to be invited. Club President Mike Clark has stated the club has never had women because no women ever applied.

Guitar manufacturer moves

Mundelein—The Village of Mundelein will soon be home to a world-renowned guitar manufacturing company.

Washburn International, a guitar-manufacturing company located in Vernon Hills, will make its move to Mundelein sometime this month. The company will be located in the old Decorel building at 444 E. Courtland.

Mundelein MainStreet has joined in on some of the fun by displaying a life-size cutout of KISS guitarist Paul Stanley at its office, 16 E. Park St. One of Washburn's Paul Stanley Signature Series guitars is also on display.

MainStreet officials said the display is part of an introduction to the products which are offered by Washburn.

Washburn, with its move to Mundelein, will be consolidating three other plants from Vernon Hills, Chicago, and Elkhart, Ind. The Mundelein office will be home to over 200 employees for factory and office operations.

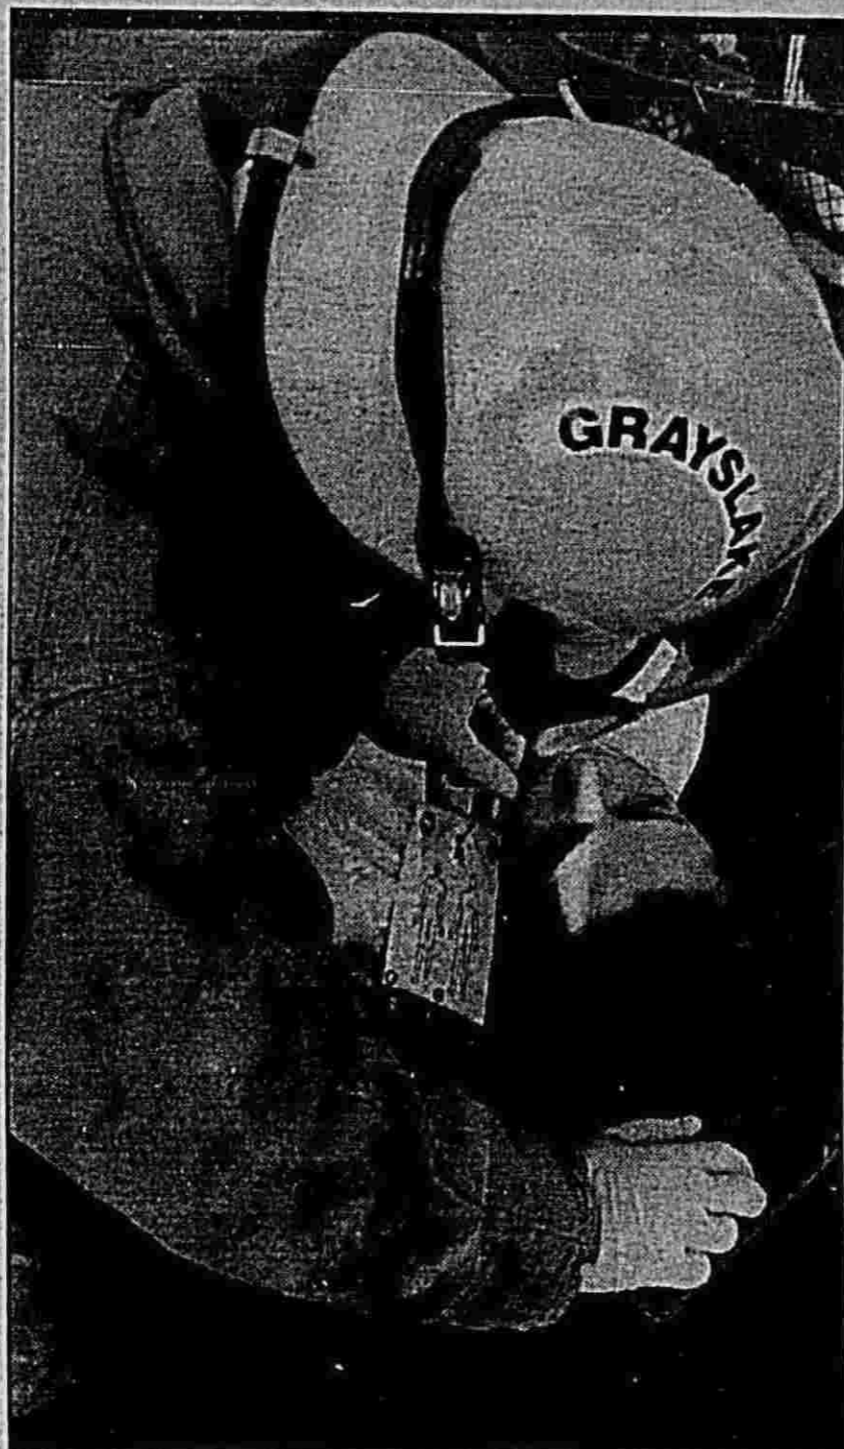

The office will be open this month.

Woman attacked in Gurnee

Gurnee—A Beach Park woman was attacked after leaving Kohl's Department Store, 6525 Grand Ave., on May 25.

After finishing her shopping at the store, the woman walked to her vehicle, placed her packages in the car, and proceeded to sit in the driver's seat. A man approached the vehicle and then attempted to push the woman into the passenger seat, said Commander Jay Patrick of the Gurnee Police Department.

When the woman tried to fend off the subject, a struggle ensued. She was then able to crawl out of the passenger-side door.

The man then fled the scene.

The subject was described as a white male, between the ages of 45 and 55, with gray, disheveled hair and a heavy build. He was wearing dark-framed glasses.

The incident is currently under investigation.

Tornado victim relief a success

Lindenhurst—With the tornado stricken people of Oklahoma in mind, Frank Davis, executive director of the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center (LECC), decided to hold a community-wide relief collection.

This undertaking enabled Davis to inform the children at the LECC about what happened to the people in Oklahoma, and allowed the children to have hands-on involvement in the project. Davis set the collection goal at 10,000 pounds.

Beginning on May 10, the campaign for the accumulation of goods to be shipped to Oklahoma took off. As Davis said, "With word spreading so much, it really got the interest going." The LECC even received donations and calls of interest from people as far away as Lake Forest, Highland Park, Crystal Lake, and McHenry.

Davis and the 3 to 7 year-old children at the LECC put together over 200 care packages for the victims. By May 28 when the collection was picked up, the total had reached almost 55,000 pounds of non-perishable goods. This exceeded the initial goal by nearly 45,000 pounds.

Cardinal George visits Cemetery

Libertyville—This Memorial Day brought an honored visit by Cardinal Francis George, Archbishop of Chicago, to the annual Memorial Day field Mass at Ascension Cemetery in Libertyville.

In the Roman Catholic Church Memorial Day stands out as a special day of devotion.

In the 71 years that Mass has been held at Ascension Cemetery on Memorial Day, this was the first time a Cardinal had been present and given the Mass.

Cardinal George attended the field Mass to bless the new mausoleum at the cemetery.

The beautiful weather and Cardinal George's visit brought a larger crowd than normal, 1,500 attendees.

During his homily he referred to the war in Kosovo indirectly, according to Father Merold. Cardinal George talked about the great need to pray for peace in this country and world during this time in history. He asked the Church to pray for those who fought and died to defend our freedom and for those fighting currently.

He went on to discuss the contradictions of war. How it solves problems, but creates other new problems, according to Jeff Johnson, music director at Queen of Peace.

High schools holds graduation

Libertyville—Caps and gowns have been ordered and final exams are in the past. The only thing left for seniors of the Class of 1999 to do is walk across the stage in black caps and gowns and receive their diploma from LCHS.

Teachers, family and friends will be present for the Class of 1999 of Libertyville High School to move on to greater opportunities through a higher education Friday, June 4.

The commencement exercises will take place at 7:00 p.m. in the Welsh-Ryan Arena at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Class President Jeremy Blair and Valedictorian Matthew Chong will deliver their messages to their fellow classmates.

Bomb rumor evacuates school

Round Lake—Approximately 1,000 Round Lake High School students in the middle of taking their third period final exams were evacuated and sent home over a bomb-threat rumor.

Dr. Mary Davis, Superintendent of Round Lake District 116, stated that at 8:45 a.m., the principal's secretary received a phone call from an adult male whose child heard a rumor that a student, angry about not graduating, was threatening to bomb the high school.

The man said he was making the call because he did not want to see a repeat of Littleton, Colorado.

After an extensive search of the building and lockers, no explosives or other dangerous materials were found.

Round Lake Chief of Police Charles Foy said investigators have interviewed 20 subjects and have narrowed their suspicions down to one male. Officers were posted at the high school for the remainder of the week.

Valley Lakes development half-sold

Round Lake—Heron Landing at Valley Lakes in Round Lake is approaching the half-way-sold mark.

Heron Landing is one of 21 neighborhoods within Valley Lakes, an 865-acre master planned community. In all, more than 450 acres of open space with wetlands and native forests are being preserved.

Thirty new ponds and lakes are being added to Valley Lakes. Landscape buffers of trees, shrubbery, and tall prairie and Indian grasses will surround the newly created lakes and enhance the community as a whole.

"Valley Lakes is the only community in the Chain O'Lakes vicinity to provide natural resources this elaborate," said Carol Shanahan.

Church to hold county fair

Wadsworth—The Church of St. Patrick in Wadsworth is celebrating its 150-year anniversary with the Paddy's County Fair on Saturday, June 12 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Everyone is welcome to enjoy this outdoor event featuring contests, games, petting zoo, a Dixieland band, DJ, dancing, and great food.

Get out of politics, developers told

In somewhat more delicate phraseology, County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake), chairman of planning, building and zoning, told developers to butt out of politics if they want a place at the table deciding land use policy in the future.

Leafblad was responding to a suggestion from the Home Builders' Assn. that members be hired to help draft new zoning and development procedures. The plain spoken chairman didn't have to resort to the old saw about "letting the fox in the hen coop," but he got his point across by mentioning that majority members of the committee have experienced an "adversarial relationship" with builders who have worked to unseat pro-environment officials by funding election campaigns of their opponents.

That said, the forthright chairman indicated that the builders' suggestion will be considered. With land for development becoming more scarce, builders are pushing county officials for higher density planning that they have enjoyed for a number of years in Lake County municipalities. They see it worthwhile to be part of the process instead of standing on the outside tossing political hand grenades.

While county officials are putting the finishing touches on the long-awaited Unified Development Ordinance, builders seek heavy density authority in projects involving set asides for open space or forests as opposed to the current County Board posture of preserving open space and protection of the environment. Couched in a newly formulated "let's-work-together" approach, developers don't want the density question to get very far afield.

Politicians and builders are dealing with the same amount of dwindling open space. They ought to get together to make the most of it.

Involving teens sensible approach to some issues

A trend involving youth in local government may have started last year when Fox Lake seated an 18-year-old to fill a vacancy on the village board.

Now, officials of Warren Township are involving young people in considering the feasibility of building a $400,000 park for skateboarders, in-line skaters and bikers. At an initial meeting, township trustees conferred with about 40 teens on needs for a park with ramps, straight-aways and rails.

Providing for the youthful daredevils involves serious planning. Several skaters said the park should be kept open until curfew to provide sufficient time for all the skaters and bikers to get in a good workout. Adults in the know are applauding the proposal so parking lot blacktops can be returned to automobile parking.

We thought installation of a teenager on the village council was more than a little far-out, but involving young people in the planning process for community recreation and other needs of the younger generation makes sense. When young people are helping shape their future, they're not churning in angry retaliation to an insensitive society. Something to think about.

MEANWHILE IN THE STATE SENATE.....

VIEWPOINT

Youth corps gets teens motivated

Fifty students are getting ready for a super summer of eight weeks of earning and learning.

They are members of the Lake County Youth Conservation Corps (YCC), a select group of youths who work on Forest Preserve projects, combining outdoor work experience with 40 hours of environmental education.

Boys and girls aged 16 to 18 selected by lot from a field of more than 500 applicants will go to work June 14. They'll be paid $6.25 per hour and work under crew chiefs directed by Bob McCammon, superintendent of support operations for the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist.

Two of the crew leaders, alumni of previous YCC sessions, described the kind of jobs the teens from all corners of the county will be handling—building foot-bridges across wetlands, restoring prairie land, installing playground equipment, stream clean-up, erecting habitat for birds and ducks.

"Experience of a lifetime," exclaimed Matt O'Garden of Libertyville, a muscular college student and role model for YCC rookies. O'Garden said YCC work is physically demanding. Last year corps members put in 100,000 plants. "It's hard labor," he emphasized.

Jayson Marsoobian of Waukegan, another crew leader, predicted the YCC experience "will be inspiring." He described himself as "sheltered" as a teen. "I didn't know what I wanted to do. Working with my peers, I got motivated. I decided I wanted to attend college." Marsoobian is taking courses that will prepare him for a career in environmentalism.

The work/education program is funded by the Forest Preserve Dist. and a not-for-profit corporation made up of interested business persons and corporations. Cost of the program runs between $110,000 and $120,000. YCC started in 1974 with a federal grant. Since 1982 it has been funded solely by private sources.

Friendly Midwest

Take it from Lisa Heaton, mid-westerners are pretty nice folks.

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Heaton, a native of Maryland, admitted to having misgivings moving here several years ago when her Navy husband was transferred to Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

"We had lived on both coasts and in other parts of the world, but never the Midwest. I didn't know what to expect," remarked Heaton, who organized Grayslake's first Farmers' Market and served as director of the Downtown Council. Now the Heaton's are returning to the land of crab cakes and the home of the Orioles. "I've made friends I'll never forget. The Midwest was a great experience," she stated saying goodbye.

Tornado prone

Steve Young, long-time sports photographer for Lakeland Newspapers, is hounded by tornadoes. In Charleston a few weeks ago to cover a prep track meet, Young found the sports event threatened by funnel clouds.

Steve's first experience with a tornado was as an 8-year-old when he was picked up by swirling winds near Antioch and hurled 100 feet. Were you scared? he was asked. "Not really. It was sort of fun. I just hollered to my mother, 'Look mom. I'm flying.' I found out about the danger later."

Busy student

Congratulations to Rob Bradshaw of Park City, the new student trustee at College of Lake County. Rob is a 1998 graduate of Calvary Christian School, Lake Villa, who is pursuing an associate of arts degree in theatre. He fits the "busy person who gets things done" description—active in student senate, serving on the CLC tech and curriculum commission and work at WCLC, student radio station.

Geo on-the-job

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) was a blur in motion over the long Memorial Day weekend. After a tension-filled General Assembly session adjourned Thursday, Geo-Karis hurried home to be on hand Friday when Gov. George Ryan signed her bill at Antioch toughening drunk driving rules for boaters. Saturday and Sunday was spent "catching up" on things. (Actually, she outdistanced this geezer columnist). Monday she took part in three parades. Tuesday morning she was working the phones and making appointments. All in a day's work for a hard-working legislator who defies her 80ish years.

Over-development: The political 'kiss of death'

It has always been said that in a democracy the majority rules. Election trends show that the saying should be revised to read that in a democracy, the majority of a minority rules. In the recent election, only 25 percent of the registered voters in Lake County voted, and that's even with the Highland Park mayoral race drawing over 3,000 more votes than four years ago.

Even with the voter apathy, those who do come out and vote seem to be sounding out a general theme for everyone else. In recent years, in races for the county board, it has been the candidates who have spoken out against over-development who have won out over well-financed and often well-entrenched pro-development candidates. The anti-sprawl sentiment is becoming so strong that some pro-development candidates seem to speak with "forked tongues."

In one of these columns, I have said that there's not much more to prove with the county candidates. I believe that the message has been loud and clear, and the "slow-growth bloc," if they stay the course, should remain in control of the county board for some time. What I said, too, was that voters have so much more to do at the municipal level. That's where more of the "over-development" is now happening, in the cities and villages.

The April election was evidence how the electorate can have an effect on growth in their communities. In

SEEING IT THROUGH
John S. Matijevich

the Highland Park mayoral election, Dan Pierce won back the position by cornering his opponent, Mayor Ray Geraci, as the pro-growth candidate and Pierce won handily this time. In Gurnee, the voters won an advisory election against the proposed Entertainment village and a team of three trustee candidates won and they expect to be more aligned against policies that would bring more rapid commercial development in Gurnee. Even though the referendum was advisory, the voters sent a loud message about how they feel on the "quality of life" issue, especially since the special interests out to defeat the referendum spent some bucks at the last minute, and still couldn't win out.

Then there is the North Barrington and Hawthorn Woods scene, where residents in both communities have been sounding out for some time that they oppose the construction of a large size shopping mall there. In a last-minute pre-election move, the mall plan was buried. In spite of the last-ditch turnaround, the voters in both communities turned down the village president in one community and the incumbent trustees in both. The voters were saying, "you tried to fool us one time, we won't give you a second chance."

The "crown jewel" of anti-development issues during the April election was the $55 million referendum to purchase and maintain open space in Lake County. The result was such a foregone conclusion that there was no organized opposition to the proposition. Still, I doubt if anyone thought that the margin would be that overwhelming.

When local public officials don't mirror the sentiment of their constituency, it is right that voters sound out and get involved. The April election is notice to village and city policy makers that when they win a local election they aren't given a "blank check" to do whatever they want. How often have we heard the story that public officials have relied on a feasibility study, drawn up by so-called experts with no stake in the community, to make plans that affect the lives of people who do live there.

The last election has shown that there is so much that people can do, even if it is an advisory-only referendum, to show their voice on what is happening in their community. I like to call it Power of People (POP). It is a hint of what we had in this election, and I hope that there is more of it in the future. It is participatory democracy at its grassroots' best.

This over-development in Lake County isn't going to stop of its own accord. It's all about money. But, we can slow it down if people get involved, as they have on the county level and as they are beginning to do at the municipal level.

So, the low voter turnout wasn't all bad news. I look for the future local elections to be even more exciting, because the citizenry may become more involved even earlier than they did this time.

Rosemont casino a plus for bettors?

Coming soon, a gambling casino near you? Maybe just down the street in your hometown?

Illinois lawmakers last week passed a bill that will give a riverboat license to the suburb of Rosemont, near O'Hare airport.

The Rosemont casino will join the growing glut of places designed to satisfy our current national craze of seeing how fast we can throw away our money.

It seems gambling has replaced baseball (or whatever else was No. 1) as our national pastime. Casinos are sprouting like dandelions and folks are flocking to them.

Four years ago, when Gov. George Ryan was secretary of state, he suggested issuing 10 new licenses for floating casinos—five in Chicago, three in suburban Cook County and two in Lake County.

Mayor Bill Durkin wants one in Waukegan and a group known as Lake County Riverboat L.P. has proposed putting a casino on Fox Lake.

The group ARC (Against Riverboat Casinos) reacted to Ryan's idea by urging, "Let your elected officials know that gambling does not fit into good economics or family values."

Nevertheless, within a few years Lake County bettors with money to burn may not have to drive to Aurora, Elgin, Joliet or Rosemont, or north to the Wisconsin Indian tribe casinos.

Some of the suddenly prosperous Indians up there smugly display bumper stickers that say, "John Wayne didn't kill us all."

Concerned about the Rosemont deal are the lucrative operators of the Grand Victoria in Elgin, Illinois' most successful casino. The boat's owners and city officials fear a casino in Rosemont, 15 minutes closer to Chicago, may rob them of a third of their revenue.

Well, the answer is so obvious. Increase the odds of winning. The

CORNER

average player on the riverboats in Elgin, Aurora and Joliet, according to gaming officials, loses from $50 to $100 per visit. Is that any way to treat a patron?

Occasional visitors to the Grand Victoria have complained that the huge floating gambling hall is too packed on weekends and the slots are too stingy.

Maybe the owners should allow more chances for players to go home as winners. The impact of a nearby competitor might be softened by increasing the odds in the gamblers' favor.

Gambling always has been an insidious lure. The cavemen played with dice carved from animal bones. The ancient Romans wagered heavily on gladiator fights and chariot races.

Casino gambling is a heady vice, the ultimate escape. There are no clocks, time stands still. Surrounding the roulette and blackjack tables are hundreds of slot machines filling the milieu with a hypnotic hum, a siren's song.

Players seem mesmerized, stuffing coins into the one-armed bandits as fast as they can because the next pull of the handle and spin of the wheels just might be a jackpot.

It's as exciting as the horse races and a lot more fun than the state lottery, that rip-off known as "a tax on stupid people."

A casino in Rosemont won't be any closer to Elgin to most Lake County communities, but maybe it will increase our chances of winning when we do venture to Elgin.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Rites for Memorial top service career

After many years of exemplary service as a village trustee, Bill Madole reached a high point. Memorial Day in a career committed to community service.

With the help of a Libertyville High classmate, Jim Robbins, Madole saw an effort to establish a veterans memorial become reality May 31.

At a ceremony heavy with emotion, Madole and Robbins participated in the dedication of a monument at Lakeside Cemetery honoring 37 men from Libertyville township who lost their lives in Armed services from the Revolutionary War to the Persian Gulf War.

Madole, who worked in a family masonry business until his retirement, served more than two decades on the Libertyville Council.

A Partyline item in an edition two weeks ago incorrectly stated the positions of Congressman Phil Crane and John Porter about the bombing in Kosovo.

The item had the two representatives positions on the issue transposed. Crane opposes the bombing in Kosovo. Porter supports the present policy.

Tee time for recorder

Mary Ellen has her pop, Waukegan Mayor Bill Durkin and Atty. J. Ted Kuderko serving as official hosts. Prospective players can call 249-4404 to reserve tee times. No dinner is included in the $75 fee, but hors d'oeuvres will be served after golf.

Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood got an unexpected birthday surprise during her visit to Antioch for Gov. George Ryan's appearance.

The governor presented Wood with a laminated plaque with portraits of Abraham Lincoln during each term of his presidency between 1861 and 1865. Wood is a history buff and a Lincoln admirer. She got other gifts as well. Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug presented her with flowers. State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) gave her some porcelain china.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Grayslake preferred choice for university

It is my understanding that the decision on the location of the proposed University Center is to be made soon. As a resident of Lake County for the past 33 years, I support the Grayslake location. When the College of Lake County was built the site was chosen for its central location, the same reasoning should be used for the University Center.

The CLC location would allow sharing of resources such as child care, bookstores and the library. It does not make sense to duplicate these services. This would be the most logical location from a monetary standpoint as well as expediting the start up time. Having the University Center at CLC would also allow families with children (or parents and children) at different stages of education to drive to one campus.

I know I speak for other Lake County residents in recommending Grayslake as the best location for the University Center.

Liz Blanchfield
Gurnee

Lakehurst a great site

The plans for the Lakehurst Shopping Center are exciting to my family. This is important to everyone.

The new university can even help to redevelop Waukegan and North Chicago. The location is just perfect for doing this. I think if the multi-university is located here it will change the image of the area to a very positive one. We need that.

We can go to school, shop in some nice stores from what I read and enjoy all of the entertainment, pedestrian walkways and skyways. I understand there will be a Midwest Main Street kind of approach to redevelopment.

I know the project needs a lot of support. So I hope you all contact your elected officials to let them know about this project and to have them contact the people who will make the decision for where to locate the university. Just imagine—12 universities teaching in Waukegan's Lakehurst Mall. What a change from what it is today.

Crane defends views

In the column, "Party Lines" (May 21, 1999) my position on the military situation in Kosovo was severely misrepresented. Concerned, I decided to write to you personally.

I have not supported, nor will I "back" the administration on the "bombing" in Kosovo, as your paper improperly stated. I am on record as opposing the U.S. and NATO intervention in Kosovo. Indeed, the tragedy in this region is authentic and heart-breaking. American military intervention in this matter, however, is a meddling in the internal affairs of a foreign nation in which we have no business and which we do not have the proper means to rectify. This intervention is, instead, a dangerous and costly symptom of the American syndrome to manage and "police" the world.

The goals of the current NATO military operation are vague and ill-defined. A military operation must state objectives and reach those objectives through clearly-enunciated avenues. Neither the current administration, nor the NATO high command, have reached such goals in Kosovo. Instead, they have found themselves waddling about with a military operation that, quite frankly, has been running around.

I am, as all Americans are, much concerned about the possibility of losing further American lives in this intervention. We have already lost several brave soldiers during a training mishap. Further loss would also be tragic. Simply, we must be concerned about the use of American soldiers where they shouldn't be deployed.

I would appreciate that my proper stance on the Kosovo matter be represented in "Party Lines" or in your newspaper in the future. It is my duty to represent my district to the best of my abilities. I cannot do so if my views are improperly represented. Thank you.

Phil Crane, M.C.

and for building a minimum security corrections facility in Waukegan.

Nollenberger said county officials were "surprised" the bill was not called for a vote in the Senate during the spring session.

"That funding package has been put on hold and that obviously puts us in a bind for (funding) the University Center, transportation improvements and the minimum security facility," he said.

As a result, the county will have to explore other alternatives for funding the University Center.

"We've been exploring other options. We've been exploring federal funds. We've been exploring private donations," Nollenberger said.

METRA: May double reauthorized.

"It's a tremendously successful train service and there's broad support for it through the area certainly," said David Kohn, a spokesman for Porter's office. "There's been tremendous demand for adding additional trains."

The new appropriations bill, which still must be approved by the full Houses in Congress, provides money for 12 miles of double tracking along the North Central line. This would allow Metra to be able to double the service along the corridor from 10 to 22 trains per day. Currently, Metra shares the track with the Wisconsin Central Railroad.

Malone said the expanded train service would give commuters who use the line more options in terms of the times of day they use the service.

"We know people would like more rush hour service. The last train out of downtown Chicago leaves at 6:17 p.m. and all of our other rail lines are much later than that," he said.

Still, Malone emphasized that even if funding is approved, it doesn't mean there will be expanded service overnight.

"We think it's a five-year project before we'd have all the double track in place to add 12 more trains," he said.

County Board member David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove), along with other county officials, pushed to get money appropriated for the expanded rail service.

Stolman said he thought it was important for the county to take a strong leadership position on the issue, noting that he has received calls of support from residents as far away as Wisconsin.

Building a dream home for Keith

Family finds home with special accommodations for handicapped son, is a haven

Sherry and Douglas Wagner were in the midst of building their dream house 16 years ago when tragedy struck the family. Sherry watched builders dig the hole for the foundation and never saw the contemporary home again until she brought her son home to the new house.

At 20-months of age, Keith Wagner was rushed to the hospital with a very high fever.

A few hours later, he was transferred to Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, where he stayed for the next six months.

When Sherry returned to her dream home, the walking, talking toddler was in a wheelchair. The illness had severely damaged his brain and he would never walk or talk again. Today, at 17, Keith functions on an infant level.

"It wasn't long before we realized that our dream house was no longer the home for our family," she said.

But, there was one thing they were very sure of—they wanted to stay in the same Wadsworth neighborhood.

"When I arrived home from the hospital that day, I didn't know any one," Sherry said. "Here I was wheeling my son in this stroller/wheelchair and people were just so nice, they welcomed us to the neighborhood and made us feel at home."

The Wagners next built a home at the end of their street. The simple, ranch floor plan was built with wider doorways and handicapped accessible bathrooms to aid with Keith's

The home features an open hardwood staircase circling up to a loft and two bedrooms.

The Wadsworth home of Doug and Sherry Wagner is not only beautiful, but has amenities one would only find in home built for someone with disabilities, such as the indoor pool seen in the left side of the photo.—Photos by Sandy Bressner care, but Sherry said they just didn't think far enough in advance.

"Keith is almost six feet tall now and it was very difficult to get him in and out of the tub," Sherry said. "We knew what we needed was a home where we were sure we could accommodate Keith's care needs for the long-term."

They purchased the lot next door and called John Leivick of Leivick Construction in Wadsworth and asked him to design and build the family a new dream home. He had also built their first two homes.

The Wagners moved into the home in December of 1998.

"We built this home for Keith," Sherry said. "This is something we thought about for a long-time."

The home has a country appearance on the exterior, a look Sherry enjoys but once you open the front door, visitors find a very open and spacious floor plan which provides the family with a lot of time for togetherness.

"We don't have a formal living room or dining room," Sherry said. "I don't need them so I opted to make the front room one large room." Indeed, the room visitors enter at the front door stretches to the back of the home, where floor to ceiling windows provide an abundance of natural light.

Above: There are no formal rooms. Visitors walk into a single, very large, great room. Above right: Done in simple tones of black and white, the spacious kitchen features a granite island in the middle. Right: The indoor swimming pool and whirlpool are climate-controlled to help physically condition son Keith's muscles.

"Keith loves the sunlight and I dislike a dark home," Sherry said.

The large room is separated into foyer and living area by a oak circular staircase which leads to the second floor and to the basement, which is currently unfinished.

The contemporary home is decorated in black, white and earth tones, which enhance the simple, open feeling Sherry wanted to achieve.

Off the foyer is the master bedroom with large bay windows which let in lots of light. The master bathroom has two large doors on either side which adjoin it with Keith's bedroom.

"This bathroom is great," Sherry said.

The black and white room features a very large shower which is able to accommodate Keith.

One of the most innovative aspects of the home is the track system which enables Sherry to transport Keith from his daybed in the living room to his bedroom and to the bathroom. She does so by placing him in a sling which will guide him around the track.

"This was essential because he has grown too heavy for me to lift," Sherry said. A large door in the wall allows Sherry to bring him from the bedroom to the living room area, where he spends most of his time on the day bed.

"He likes to be out where we are, and we want it that way," Sherry said. It is on the large daybed that she feeds, clothes and cares for Keith.

The track system also transports Keith from his bedroom, which is decorated in Chicago Bull motif (Keith met Michael Jordan at a charity golf outing and a framed photo the two is in the living room) to an attached pool, which is used for therapy.

"We really wanted the pool so we could give him therapy at home," Sherry said. "With a 3 and one-half year old daughter it is difficult to take both of them to a pool for his therapy." The pool is kept quite warm in order to loosen and work Keith's muscles. It is enclosed, heated and air conditioned to make it as comfortable as possible.

The large kitchen is also done in the simple tones of black and white, with a large granite island in black and a Dacor range top and double oven.

"We are family-oriented people and the home fits our simple lifestyle," Sherry said. A two-sided gas fire place makes the natural separation between kitchen and living room.

There is also a first-floor laundry off the garage and handicapped accessible doorways with automated doors and ramps to bring Keith in and out of the home.

On the second level are three bedrooms and a full bath. The floor is occupied by daughter, Jana, whose bedroom features a bay window with a toy box built into the window seat.

"It was the builder's idea," Sherry said. "It is absolutely fantastic, it gives her storage space and it looks great."

High cathedral ceilings provide a large shelf which is home to overstuffed toys like Raggedy Ann and Andy.

The second floor bathroom, which is primarily used by Jana, is decorated with Mickey Mouse, the youngster's favorite Disney character. A large guest room and a toy room complete the upstairs.

Sherry gives credit for the home's design to builder, John Leivick.

"He has been terrific," she said. Sherry believes this home will meet the family's needs well into the future.

"We are truly blessed," she said. "I have a wonderful life of volunteering at Laremont School (where Keith is enrolled) and this home with enable me to take care of him when he is no longer eligible for school (at age 21)."

A Mickey Mouse cookie jar adorns the kitchen counter top.

"It is Keith's favorite place," she said. "We make a point to go there once a year as our family vacation. There is something about the characters that he loves. He just brightens up during his visits there."

Sherry says while the accessibility of the home is paramount for her family, staying in the same neighborhood was as well.

"Everyone knows us and knows Keith and they treat him just like one of the kids," she said. "We have terrific neighbors."

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

This is the time of the year when I am often reminded how educated some people can be and how naive at the same time. I am referring to the dozens of calls I have received in the past two weeks from students home for summer break. In as much as that we employ several dozens of students over the summer break, attitudes never seem to stop amusing me. I would like to address some of the situations to you in my column this week, with hopes that perhaps something you hear will put you in tune...I'd like to address a call I personally documented with humor, where an advertisement had been placed in a newspaper for a Lake County Corporation seeking Data Entry and our corporate phone number. Now, the proper way, of course, to place a call to a company in search of this position, is to professionally present yourself over the phone, which he did. I was thoroughly impressed with his upbeat high energy desire for data entry and his pride in his key strokes. The conversation went well and after establishing the salary to be above what he quoted to be his "desirable salary" further stating how this sounds like it is right up his alley, I set up an appointment with this individual for an interview. While in the midst of giving directions he stopped dead in his tracks and asked if he was calling an employment agency, the character became irate and started mouthing off some irritating speech about it being wrong to deceive people by not putting our company name in the paper so we can identify ourselves. I, of course, allowed this person to continue to embarrass himself and asked him if he was finished. He calmed down long enough to allow me to ask him two questions. The first was, "Tell me, is your difficult attitude, due to the fact that you have not been able to find a job?" He said, "Possible"...I then responded with another question to him, and this being "Are you looking for the position that we just discussed, and you seemed enthralled with?" Again, he responded with "yes, but I don't need to use an employment agency to get one!" Then I started laughing out loud as he expressed his disgust and asked me if I found his answer to that funny. "Of course I do," I said to him, "the position that you are applying for, is right here in our corporation!" As the phone became silent, I believe that he realized his ignorance was showing. And my final four words of the conversation before placing the receiver in its cradle, ended with..."I have a nice day."

I would also like to address the college applicant who treated me to a sparkling interview, that lead to her being employed all summer at an hourly salary she only dreamed of during breaks...Turning to what some may refer to as a "jekyll and hyde" persona in her second week of employment because she had not received her first payroll check. You may want to seriously consider not showing that "less than pleasant" side of yourself to any employer. It gives it away, that you seem to place blame on everyone but yourself. Once you were informed that the United States Postal service was holding your mail in an area labeled "ANK", (or "address unknown") due to the fact that your name appears nowhere on or in your mailbox. Your response to that was, "Well, how was I supposed to know that I need to have my name on my mailbox? I just moved here." It was by then too late to take back any of the attitude. The truth is, I think you really believe that someone dealt you a bad hand (so to speak) and that it's someone else's fault for not telling you about mailboxes, perhaps there's a course you can pick up next semester in college.

Or perhaps, you may want to refresh your mind on the A, B, C's of employment and how to keep it!

*Note to L.R., Island Lake

Thank you for your short note I have received today. I assure you, that is the first correspondence I have ever received from you. It appears by the tone of your letter that you may wish to try not burning bridges before you check the facts. I have a nice day.

The showroom has been located in the Grayslake area for over 47 years. The family-run business has now expanded from providing home lighting fixtures and electrical supplies to opening many accessory line items, such as: mailboxes, decorative mirrors, numerous lamp lines, home furnishings, etc... We have become your specialty lighting store with installations available upon request. We also offer lamp and lighting repairs.

This year, on June 5th, our sidewalk sale, with fixtures starting as low as $5.00, will also be coordinated with a free landscape lighting seminar. The showroom sale will start at 8:00 am and continue till 4:00 pm. Our landscape seminar hosted by guest speaker, Rick Maring, will begin promptly at 1:00 pm. Call ahead for reservations.

There will be a slide presentation along with a question and answer session. All landscape fixtures will be offered at half off the manufacturer's list price.

Hope to see you soon!

Chicago's Oldest Real Estate Broker Is Looking Pretty Good For Its Age.

As we approach the midway point of our second century in business, things are looking pretty good at Baird & Warner.

Not just because we've managed to survive 144 years in real estate.

But because we continue to thrive as the largest, and most successful, independent real estate company in the Chicago area.

With 30 neighborhood offices generating some $3 billion a year in sales throughout the city and suburbs. A state-of-the-art marketing approach powered by a range of multi-media tools, including one of the best websites in the business. Powerful relocation capabilities that dwarf those of our "national" competitors. And people who personify what today's real estate profession is all about. Vibrant. Driven. Entrepreneurial. And above all, independent.

Maybe that's why we continue to attract the best professionals in Chicago real estate, year in and year out.

After all, we do look pretty good for our age. And even better for the future.

The beauty of the kitchen is not just in the overall look, but in the details of fine craftsmanship. Is the molding right for the cabinets? Does the finish have a deep hand-rubbed luster? Is everything exactly as you would like it in your kitchen? This is how you'll view the kitchen long after it's "new." So make sure even the tiniest details turn out perfectly. Choose Wood-Mode.

Dodge Intrepid blends passion with practicality

Dynamically, the 1999 Dodge Intrepid and Intrepid ES benefit from more robust sway bar links and tubular trailing arms, to be phased into production mid-model year. Both add to interior ride isolation without sacrificing driver control. For enhanced security, Chrysler's exclusive Sentry Key™ is now available as an option.

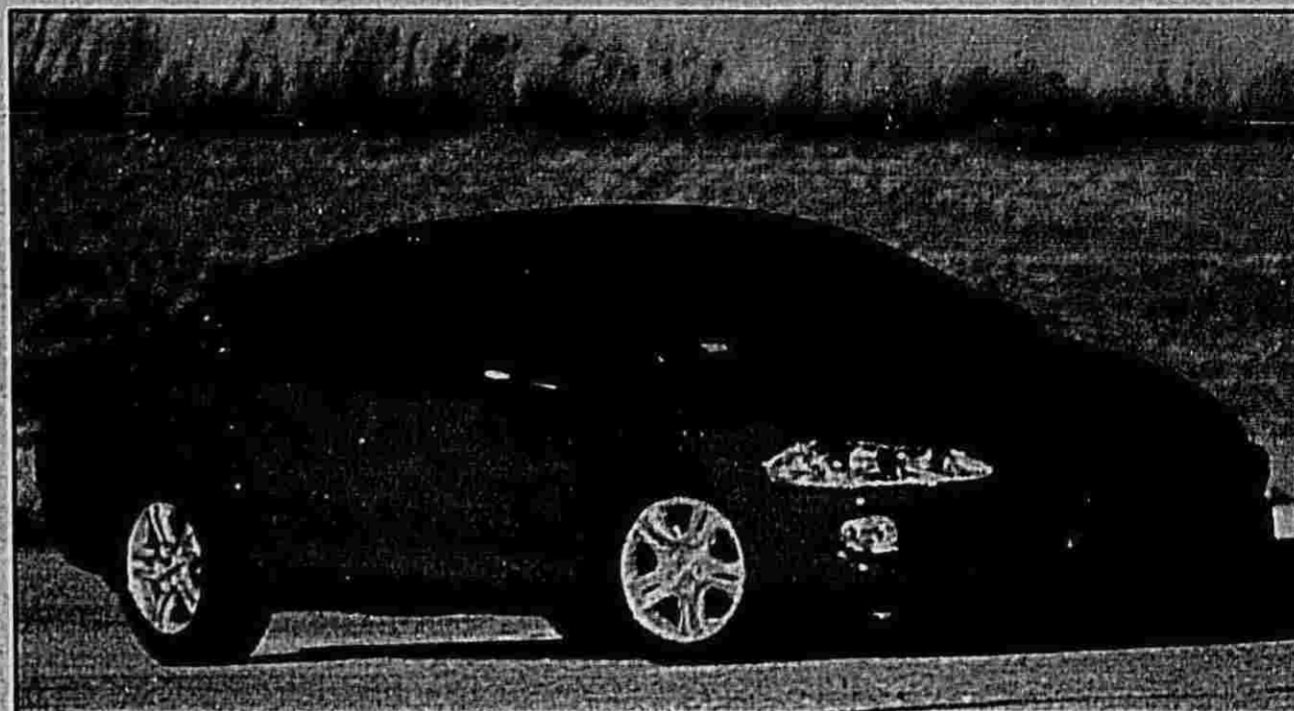

Under the hood, the performance side of the equation comes into play with the invigorating aluminum 2.7-liter, 24-valve, V-6 engine, standard in the Intrepid. Its 200 horsepower rating provides the highest horsepower-per-liter rating in its class while delivering outstanding fuel efficiency. Intrepid ES is powered by an all-aluminum 3.2-liter V-6 that delivers 225 horsepower through a fully adaptive electronic four-speed AutoStick® transmission. AutoStick offers the convenience of an automatic with the control of a manual.

"The 1999 Dodge Intrepid is for those who want an exhilarating driving experience, yet who also need a sedan that can comfortably seat five or six," said Jim Julow, General Manager - Dodge Division.

Specific design cues for the 1999 Dodge Intrepid include a prominent "cross hair" grille, as well as an aggressive stance from any angle - a theme now seen in every new Dodge car and truck. Intrepid's roofline and shortened rear deck result in a coupe-like profile, and help to reduce the Cd (coefficient of drag) to .300.

Inside, Dodge Intrepid's interior carries over the sporty theme of the car's exterior, yet is flexible enough to accommodate up to six passengers. With its light colored gauges and a hooded design to shield them from reflection, designers developed a commanding, yet inviting driver's cockpit to support Intrepid's strong performance image.

How to get the spark back into your engine

If you're having difficulty starting your car or it's running rougher than it used to, it may be time to replace the spark plugs. Spark plugs generally are very reliable engine components — which perhaps is why we often neglect them. However, leaving spark plugs in too long or poor plug installation can cause lost fuel mileage, rough operation and engine damage.

Replace spark plugs according to the manufacturer's recommendations. There are now a number of high-quality, longer-lasting plugs available, like Autolite® Platinum, that last up to three years and Autolite® Platinum ProTM, that last up to five years. This means you can change your plugs less often while maintaining a high level of engine performance. The automotive experts at AlliedSignal provide the following tips for proper spark-plug installation:

• Before you begin — First, always check the plug's "gap," or the clearance between the electrodes at the firing end of the plug. While the spark-plug gap is set during manufacturing, it may need some adjustment after shipping and handling. Make sure the gap is properly set for your specific vehicle engine. It's a good idea to clean out the area first by blowing into it. That way, you'll prevent bits of dust and grit from falling into the cylinder.

• Remove spark plugs — You'll need to use a spark-plug wrench. Apply firm, steady pressure on the wrench until it starts to budge. Then, after each full turn of the wrench, actually screw the plug back in, just a touch, to loosen any debris that may be caught on the threads.

• If you can't loosen the plug — Try running the engine until it's warm, as this tends to expand the plug hole. Turn off the engine and try removing the plug. Or, you might want to try spraying penetrating oil at the base of the plug. However, make sure the engine is cold before spraying the oil. Allow the oil to soak in for a while to lubricate the threads before putting the wrench on the plug. After removing the old plug, have a look to make sure that the threads in the engine are not damaged. For repairing mild thread damage, you can try using a thread chaser. But make sure you follow the manufacturer's directions carefully.

• Install the new plug — Start off the new plug by hand to make sure you don't thread it in crooked. And, be sure you don't over-tighten the plug. Gasket-seat plugs shouldn't be screwed in more than one-twelfth turn past where they contact the engine and tapered seat plugs shouldn't be tightened more than one-sixteenth of a turn.

If done properly, replacing your spark plugs won't be a difficult or time-consuming task. And, getting into the habit of replacing them regularly may help you avoid significant engine damage in the future.
